VANGUARD'S HOP DELAYED

... True Space Station Visioned

WASHINGTON (AP)—Plans for bigger and better U.S. satellites piled up Monday as the Army's 30.8 pound Explorer sailed around the earth at 18,000 miles an hour.

Army scientists, it was learned, are proposing to send up an elaborately instrumented satellite weighing as much as 700 pounds before the end of the year. It would be the forerunner of a true space station.

The Navy was reported to be considering cutting down on the number of miniature moons it will launch in its Vanguard test program and concentrating instead on getting a basketball-size satellite in orbit sometime next month.

Heavy winds at the Cape Canaveral missile site in Florida appeared to have eliminated the chances of another U.S. satellite being launched Monday night.

"Looks Good"

A 72-foot Vanguard is standing on its launching pad there and in missilemen's terms it "looks good."

The Army also has a tall missile ready on a nearby launching stand. It may be another 70-foot Jupiter-C, the type that carried Explorer into orbit Friday night, or it could be just the 56-foot Redstone first stage rocket.

A second Explorer is expected to be fired soon, to be followed by a 300-pound TV-equipped reconnaissance vehicle.

Then, it was learned Monday, Maj. Gen. John B. Medaris, Dr. Werner Von Braun and other scientists working on the Army's missile program want to send a 700-pounder aloft to gather detailed data for the building of a space station.

Explorer IV would carry not only TV equipment, but other elaborate photographic and electronic instruments.

Moon Shot Possible

In Philadelphia, Willy Ley, a world leader in rocketry, was predicting the United States will be able to send a manned satellite into space within six years. Ley said both this country and Russia probably could shoot a rocket to the moon this year if they wanted to.

Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont) commented in Washington that the Army's success with its first Explorer indicated to him that the Army might have been downgraded too much in relation to the other branches of the armed service. He discussed the situation on the Senate floor, at the same time sending the Army his congratulations.

Sen. Clark (D-Pa) agreed the presence of the Explorer in the skies should give all Americans a sense of satisfaction. "But I feel we are about to pat ourselves silly in self-congratulation," he added.

Clark said the Russian Sputniks, launched last October and November, "woke us up." He expressed hope that Explorer "won't put us back to sleep again."

Nickerson Defended

In another reaction to the Army's achievement, Sen. Neuberger (D-Ore) urged that court-martial penalties against Col. John C. Nickerson be revoked.

Nickerson, then stationed at the Army's Redstone arsenal in Alabama, where the Jupiter was developed, disclosed secret information in campaigning against restrictions of the Army's missile role. He pleaded guilty last year to violation of security regulations, was fined, barred from command and transferred to a routine job in Panama.

Neuberger wrote Secretary of the Army Brucker:

Starkweather, Caril Both Enter Not Guilty Pleas

Pair Charged In Jensen Slaying

Double Counts List Both Premeditation And 'In Perpetration Of Robbery'

By DEL HARDING
Star Staff Writer

Mass killer Charles Starkweather and his 14-year-old girl friend, Caril Fugate, both pleaded innocent Monday in Lancaster County Court to charges of first degree murder.

Judge Herbert Ronin set March 1st as the preliminary hearing date for the 19-year-old Starkweather and March 8th for Caril. The purpose of these hearings, the judge said, is to determine if a crime has been committed and if there is probable cause that the accused are involved.

Both Starkweather and Caril were charged with two identical counts of murder in connection with the fatal shooting Jan. 27th of Bennett High School student Robert Jensen, 17.

The "murder in the first degree" count charges that Starkweather and Caril "did unlawfully, feloniously, purposely and of his (her) own deliberate and premeditated malice kill Robert William Jensen . . ." The second count, "murder in the perpetration of a robbery," charges that they "did unlawfully, feloniously, purposely in the perpetration of a robbery kill Robert William Jensen."

Both charges are punishable by death in the electric chair upon conviction and recommendation of a jury.

King Death Charge Held

Both Starkweather and Caril also earlier were charged with "murder in the first degree" in the fatal shooting of Jensen's girl friend, Carol King, 16 of Bennett. County Attorney Elmer Scheele said he will let these charges "sit."

Scheele said he plans to try both the red-haired Starkweather and Caril on the Jensen death, and that if any further charges are filed it would be after the charges in connection with Jensen's death have been disposed of.

Scheele said the two murder charges filed were based on one section of the 213-page statement Starkweather has signed detailing his murder spree. Scheele said Starkweather declared in the statement that Jensen was robbed of money in his car — after he and Carol King had stopped to pick up Caril and Starkweather.

SLIGHT BREAK IN COLD DUE FOR SOUTHEAST

The bone-chilled southeast part of Nebraska will warm up a little bit Tuesday but colder air will move into the rest of the state — which was spared the cold Monday.

The forecast mentions the possibility of scattered light snow in some areas Tuesday.

Southerly winds and sunshine brought unseasonably warm weather to western Nebraska Monday with Sidney and Alliance reporting highs of 60.

In the eastern part of the state temperatures dropped to overnight lows of 13 below at Norfolk and six below at Omaha. Lincoln had a 28-degree high with Omaha reporting 23.

Highs Tuesday were to be 28 to 38 in the northeast and 47 to 57 in the southwest.

Pen Clothing

Starkweather arrived in court at 11:15 a.m. after conferring with Scheele and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Starkweather of 3025 N. in Scheele's office for about 35 minutes. The confessed killer of 11 persons — 10 in Nebraska and one in Wyoming — was wearing clothing issued him at the State Penitentiary where he is being held for safekeeping.

He was dressed in blue dungarees, chambray shirt, dungaree jacket, brown shoes with no laces and was wearing rimless glasses. Starkweather's hands were handcuffed to a heavy leather belt throughout the proceedings.

More than 75 persons packed the courtroom to watch the arraignment. Starkweather was clean shaven and had had his flame-red hair trimmed by a prison barber. His father gave him a gentle pat on the back as Scheele read the two murder complaints.

Firm Answer

Judge Ronin asked him if he understood each charge and he answered a clear "yes." Asked how he wished to plead on each, he answered firmly "not guilty" to each charge.

Judge Ronin then asked Starkweather if Scheele had explained what a preliminary hearing was. The youth nodded and said casually "I don't want it." After further discussion between the judge and Guy Starkweather, the young Starkweather changed his mind, saying again in an off-hand tone, "I'll take it (the hearing), I guess."

Starkweather was remanded to the custody of County Sheriff Merle Karnopp by Judge Ronin and ordered kept in the Penitentiary without bail. The arraignment proceedings lasted just 15 minutes.

Caril appeared in court at 3:20 p.m. after Scheele had discussed the charges with her, her father, William Fugate of 1136½ K, her step-mother and her sister, Mrs. Barbara Von Busch of 425 No. 10th.

Skirt, Sweater

She wore a dark blue skirt, white sweater, beige suede jacket, black wedgies and white bobby socks. Caril appeared calm throughout the proceedings, although her step-mother stood behind her with her hands around Caril's waist.

When asked if she understood the charges against her she replied quietly "yes." Judge Ronin then asked her how she wished to plead on each charge, and she also said "not guilty." The 15-minute arraignment was again witnessed by an over-flow crowd of about 75 persons.

The fathers of both Starkweather and Caril told Judge Ronin that they had not yet contacted attorneys for the accused. Both, however, indicated they would by the time the preliminary hearing was held. William Fugate said he probably will ask the University of Nebraska Law College legal aid bureau for help in view of his financial situation.

Caril was taken back to the Lincoln State Hospital for safekeeping at the order of Judge Ronin. Scheele told the judge that he, Caril and her father all believed it was the most suitable place to keep her. Caril blew a kiss to her sister Barbara and smiled at her as she was driven away in Sheriff Karnopp's car. She also will be held without bail.

Defense Fund Bill Is Passed

Resounding 78-0 Vote Okays $1.4 Billion Measure

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate gave a swift and resounding 78-0 vote of approval Monday to the $1,410,000,000 emergency defense funds bill.

Thus it followed the House in unanimous approval of a major step toward creating the missiles and other weapons demanded in the face of space age threats.

The Senate needed less than an hour to debate the measure, then whipped it to passage on a roll call vote. It goes back to the House now for action on Senate changes which did not affect the sum involved.

Leading up to the vote, Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, the Senate Democratic leader, said the critical times call for a united nation. He asked the Senate to demonstrate just such a unity.

Sen. Symington (D-Mo) called the bill "piecemeal," but withheld additional proposals lest it be delayed. Sen. Jackson (D-Wash) likewise said the pending bill would take care only of minimum requirements.

'Meaningful'

Sen. Holland (D-Fla) remarked that while he regarded the $1,410,000,000 money bill as "meaningful," there still is a big job ahead when the regular defense budget comes up.

Sen. Clark (D-Pa) took note of America's earth satellite and said: "Just because we've got a Sputnik up in the air I hope we don't go back to sleep."

Sen. Jenner (R-Ind), who has announced he is retiring from the Senate, had a critical comment for those in charge of military security. He said:

"Personally, I think they have got too much money now. If we go down the drain financially, it won't do us much good to have defense."

For The Bill

However, Jenner voted for the bill. The 78 senators present—38 Democrats and 42 Republicans—all voted for the bill. The other 18, including 13 Democrats and 5 Republicans, all were announced as in favor of passage.

Leaders of both parties advised against any boost at this time, lest it delay things. The House voted the $1,410,000,000 total on Jan. 23 by a 388-0 vote.

Sen. Mansfield of Montana, assistant Democratic leader, predicted before the Senate reached the voting stage that this bill "will go through now just as it cleared the Appropriations Committee."

Sen. Knowland of California, the Senate Republican leader, said: "These funds are needed and should move ahead as rapidly as possible."

Sen. Symington (D-Mo) and some others protested that the bill was not large enough to cover things urgently needed, but they appeared willing to let these items be covered in following requests from the Defense Department.

Ike Asks For Proof By Soviet

U.S. Comments On Bulganin Proposals

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia was asked in a White House statement Monday night to come forward with better proof that a summit meeting, urged by Soviet leaders, holds "good hope of advancing the cause of peace and justice."

The statement described the latest message from Premier Bulganin as consisting of "a repetition of Soviet proposals previously made and a negative attitude toward President Eisenhower's eight proposals put forward in his letter of Jan. 12."

It was not a formal reply to Bulganin's note but rather an interim comment on the U.S. position.

"The Soviet note is being further considered," the statement said. "It is, however, already apparent that further clarification of the Soviet position will be necessary before — to use President Eisenhower's words of Jan. 12 — 'it can be ascertained that such a top level meeting would in fact hold good hope of advancing the cause of peace and justice in the world.'"

Assurances

Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles have insisted ever since the question of another summit meeting was raised that there must be assurances that the conference would achieve results.

Bulganin's 17-page letter, suggesting a nine-point agenda for a meeting of the heads of government, arrived Sunday and was reviewed by the President Monday. Eisenhower conferred with Dulles by telephone before the White House statement was issued.

The Bulganin communication, made public by Moscow, appeared to turn down all of Eisenhower's proposals. The Russians' substitute agenda was made up mostly of proposals previously rejected by the United States.

City Council OKs 'Thorough' Probe In Starkweather Case

...Plans Held Until Investigators Picked

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

The City Council decided upon a "thorough investigation" of the Charles Starkweather case during a two-hour executive session Monday afternoon.

Details are still being considered, but Mayor Bennett Martin said the "entire program" would be made public as soon as selection of the "person or persons to be used in the investigation" is made.

"I believe this (investigation) is essential to the well-being and peace of mind of all Lincoln citizens and in fairness to the Police Department," Martin said.

Martin said additional information concerning the investigation of the Starkweather case was discussed and additional reports of investigation officers were given Council members.

Last weekend, Martin had announced he would recommend "the hiring of outside investigators" to clear up any doubts of police investigation "in this particular area."

Martin also indicated that the Lancaster County Board may also be asked to cooperate in the proposed investigation of the handling of the Starkweather case.

The County Commissioners are to meet Tuesday afternoon with the City Council in executive session in the mayor's office.

The Council wants to "discuss plans" with the Commissioners, Martin said, and County Board Chairman Russell Brehm has agreed to the joint meeting of the two bodies.

Six of the slayings admitted by Starkweather occurred within the city while four were in the county.

Colvert Outside City
The Dec. 1 slaying of Robert G. Colvert, a service station attendant, occurred just outside the city limits and was investigated by the Sheriff's office.

The Marion Bartlett family murders in Belmont were the first slayings involving Starkweather within the city police jurisdiction.

Officials point out that city-county boundaries were criss-crossed several times in the series of 10 murders in this area.

Martin denied that either public or press criticism had prompted his decision to ask a probe of the Starkweather case.

"I made my decision last week," Martin said, "because I certainly believe the police have been on the right side in their investigation, and if they were, the confidence of the public in the police department should be restored by a full inquiry."

Martin said the record of the police department "has been good according to outside checks in the past."

"Perhaps we're not so good, in the minds of the people, as we thought we were," the mayor said. "This investigation of the Starkweather case will show us if we are wrong."

Detail's Shed Light On Killer's Long Trail Of Blood

By DEL HARDING
Star Staff Writer

The following account of Charles Starkweather's crime spree which began Dec. 1st with the murder of Robert Colvert has been pieced together from information furnished by Wyoming and Nebraska authorities.

Colvert

About midnight, Dec. 1st, Charles Starkweather decided to go to the Crest Service Station at 1545 Cornhusker and rob the station attendant. A few hours later he drove his 1949 light blue Ford into the station, pointed a .12 gauge shotgun at attendant Robert Colvert and robbed him of about $160 in receipts.

Then Starkweather forced Colvert to drive his—Starkweather's car to a county road about 2.2 miles northeast of the Crest Station. There, Starkweather claims, Colvert grabbed the handkerchief which Starkweather had covering his face.

This prompted Starkweather to have Colvert get from the car and then shoot him in the back of the head with the shotgun. Starkweather reported he is not sure whether or not Colvert knew him, but did not want to take any chances on being recognized.

A few days after the crime, Starkweather himself painted his Ford black and removed the grille and hubcaps to disguise the car in the event it had been seen. He also painted the vacant space behind where the grille had been red.

Caril apparently was at school when he arrived.

An argument followed between Starkweather and Mrs. Bartlett—presumably over Starkweather's dating Caril—and the fatal shooting followed. Their 2-year-old daughter was fatally clubbed with a gun-butt when she began to scream.

Caril reportedly did not arrive home until after the killings. The story of the rest of Caril's and Starkweather's stay in the Belmont home conflicts.

She claims she was held hostage by Starkweather and that when relatives and police came to check the home on several occasions she stood behind the door with a gun forcing her to get rid of them.

Starkweather claims he did not hold her hostage, nor did he guard her with a gun when she answered the door.

On the morning of Jan. 27th, following a visit by Mrs. Pansy Street of 425 No. 10th—Caril's grandmother—Caril and Starkweather fled the Bartlett home (Continued on Page 9, Col. 2.)

$15,582 Contract Let For Woods Park Site Grading

Wilber Firm Lowest Of Six Bidders

By VIRG FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

A $15,582 contract for site grading of Woods Park at 33rd and O was awarded Monday by the City Council to Webb & Renzy, a Wilber, Neb., contracting firm.

All six proposals received on the work were under the $20,000 estimate. The other bids, submitted by Lincoln firms, ranged upwards to $19,120.

Welfare Director Emmet Junge said the proposed grading, involving 100,000 cubic yards of dirt, is to be completed by May 1.

Landscaping, Too

The Park Superintendent plans some seeding and tree planting as well as construction of a temporary baseball field and picnic facilities as soon as the grading is completed.

The Council also approved $522,528 worth of special assessments in various paving, water, sewer and improvement districts and set Board of Equalization hearings for 10 a.m. on Feb. 18 and 19.

Largest is the $347,140 special assessment district on the paving and widening of South from 30th to 48th.

Other Districts

Others are two graveling districts, 10 paving, one alley paving, four water, three sewer, and one improvement (street opening) district.

In other action, the Council approved Paving District 1537, being Pace Blvd., from Marilyn Manor to Woods Blvd., Woods between Dunn and Pace, and all of Marilyn Ave.

All Council members were present except Rees Wilkinson who is hospitalized.

W. Lincoln Board Prepares To Pass Building Petitions

The West Lincoln village board made preparations Monday night to begin circulation of petitions for the proposed village building.

West Lincoln Mayor Fred Way said that the signatures of two-thirds of the voters at the last election is needed in order to place the building proposal on the ballot. The petitions, he said, would be circulated by the building committee.

Plans call for a 20-by-40 foot, one-story brick building. The cost of the village building is estimated at $12,000.

The board also set the caucus for Feb. 17.

Automatic Review Of Death Sentence Cases Required

The 1957 Legislature passed a law which provides automatic review by the Nebraska Supreme Court in all criminal cases resulting in conviction when the sentence is capital punishment.

The law, which became effective Sept. 20, 1957, has not yet been used, but provides that "notice of intention to apply for a writ of error shall not be required in such cases."

The intent of the law was to give persons convicted and sentenced to capital punishment automatic recourse to the highest tribunal.

Sputniks' Data Bares No Secrets

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — A preliminary report from Russia on her two Sputniks finally reached International Geophysical Year Headquarters Monday, but it carried no secrets from space.

IGY Secretary General Marcel Nicolet said the report contains no precise data on what the Sputniks may have learned about the sun's radiations, X-rays and ultraviolet rays.

The report said, however, that precise findings of the Sputniks, with numerical data included, will be published later. No date was given.

Belly To Belly Jet Collision Kills 1 Pilot

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — A F8D jet pilot, streaking head-on toward a two-plane formation in a mock attack maneuver Monday, pulled out too late and collided belly to belly with one of the other aircraft.

One pilot parachuted safely, but the body of the "attacking" pilot was found later about 50 miles north of the Air Force base here.

Charles AFB authorities said the name of the dead pilot was withheld until kin could be notified.

Capt. E. R. Breslaue, base public information officer, said one of the parachuting pilots was picked up safely near Andrews, about 50 miles away. He was identified as 1st Lt. Raymond G. Bronk.

Through Debris

Behind Lt. Bronk's plane in the formation was the jet flown by 1st Lt. Delbert T. Grumbach, which flew through the scattered debris of the collision but was not seriously damaged.

Lt. Grumbach landed safely back at the base and was treated and released at the hospital. Lt. Bronk reportedly telephoned his own location to authorities, and the air base sent out a helicopter to pick him up. He suffered a cut chin.

Capt. Breslaue said the three planes were practicing a maneuver in which one plane—in this case the one flown by the pilot killed Monday—bears down on the others in what is called collision course. The intercepting pilot gets his guns zeroed in as if to fire, then pulls away.

Crook Murder Trial Begins

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Jodie Bob Crook, 29, former Omaha bartender, went on trial in state Circuit Court Monday on a murder charge in the department store shooting of his estranged wife.

A motion by Crook's counsel for a continuance to the May term of Circuit Court was denied by Judge Roy Burns. Richard Braithwaite, defense attorney, sought the delay on grounds that Crook's mother could not be here as a character witness because of illness.

Spectators filled most of the available room for the trial start. Selection of a jury was expected to take several days.

Crook's 32-year-old wife, mother of three small children, was shot to death in a Sioux Falls Department store Oct. 8. The shooting occurred on a back stairway of the J. C. Penney Co. store where she was employed as a stockroom worker.

Dog Is Hero

MAN, W. Va. (AP) — Prieke, pet dog of Mr. and Mrs. Denver McClellan, of Mallory Hollow was credited with saving their lives and perhaps those of others.

A fire at the McClellan home had already burned one room when the dog awakened the sleeping family by coming to the bed, licking the face of Mrs. McClellan, and barking.

The family evacuated the blazing house, which was destroyed along with the neighbors home of Mr. and Mrs. Estil Evans.

Sightseer Killed At Roadblock

... Kidnapers Sought

PADUCAH, Ky. (AP) — A woman sightseer was shot to death Monday at a roadblock thrown up to snare a heavily armed kidnapper who vanished in a remote section of western Kentucky.

The fugitive fled on foot into river bottomland, leaving behind his critically wounded partner and three hostages.

Carl W. Burton, 24, of Redwood City, Calif., is still at large. His brother-in-law and partner in the kidnaping of Missouri State trooper William Little shot himself.

Little and a farm couple were left unharmed late Sunday night. It was then that Harold Davis, 33, an ex-convict and mental patient from Redwood City, shot himself.

Killed at the roadblock was Miss Jewell English, 24, of Paducah. She and three relatives were touring the manhunt area when they drove through a roadblock.

A Fulton, Ky., insurance salesman enlisted in the manhunt opened fire with a carbine and a Missouri trooper used his shotgun.

"It sounded like machine gun fire," Claude English, 27, Miss English's brother and driver of the car, said later.

English said he approached the roadblock and slowed down, awaiting signals from officers. When none came, he turned onto the main highway and drove off. "Then they cut loose," he said.

Miss English was slumped in the rear seat when he stopped. English said. She was dead on arrival at a hospital.

The insurance man, Forest McAllister, 26, said he didn't know whose bullet hit the young woman. No charges have been filed.

Officers from Kentucky, Missouri and Illinois fanned out over the area Saturday night when Little was abducted while making a routine search near Van Buren, Mo.

Meany Puts Doubts On Profit Plan

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — AFL-CIO president George Meany Monday cast some cautious doubt on profit-sharing plans such as Walter Reuther has demanded from the auto industry.

Meany said he always has been suspicious of such plans when proposed by employers in the past. But he added that perhaps a big union like Reuther's United Auto Workers (UAW) could bargain out a workable profit-sharing scheme.

The AFL-CIO chief, talking with newsmen following the initial winter session here of the federation's executive council, also said he was not impressed in any way with the monitor system established to supervise the expelled Teamsters Union.

Meany again made it clear that so long as James R. Hoffa remains as Teamsters president there will be no chance of letting the teamsters re-enter the AFL-CIO.

The truck union was expelled two months ago on corruption charges. Asked whether there has been any improvement in Teamsters-federation relations, Meany replied "none whatsoever."

The three-man teamsters monitor group was set up as part of a compromise settlement of a law suit. The lawsuit had sought to stop Hoffa from becoming the union's president on grounds his election had been rigged. Hoffa earlier was involved in Senate racketeering committee disclosures.

St. Paul Paper Resumes Printing After Long Strike

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The first edition of the St. Paul Pioneer Press in some six weeks rolled off the presses Monday night for delivery to the morning newspaper's readers.

Publication of the state's oldest daily was suspended the night of Dec. 17 when mail room employees went out on strike. They were followed the next day by members of the typographical and news writers' unions, causing a shut down of the plant which also publishes the Evening St. Paul Dispatch.

Drought Aid 'Abuse' Cited By Williams

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Williams (R-De) said Monday owners of one of the country's richest racing stables received $28,914 for drought relief.

He demanded that the Justice Department investigate the payment.

Williams told the Senate the payment to the Ellsworth ranch in Seligman, Ariz., was "another glaring example demonstrating the abuse which can develop in a well intended program when the government pays all the cost and there is no local financial responsibility."

He said the ranch owns Swaps and operates "one of the country's richest racing stables."

In describing the Ellsworth ranch as owner of Swaps, Williams was apparently unaware that the horse had been sold to John C. Galbreath of Columbus, Ohio, on Dec. 5, 1957.

Williams urged:

1. House approval of a bill already passed by the Senate to require participating states to put up 25 per cent of the funds for drought relief.

Investigation

2. Justice Department investigation of payments to the Ellsworth ranch, particularly "the validity of the statement" signed by the owners in applying for drought relief.

3. Steps to recover the money.

Williams said Rex Ellsworth and a brother, whose first name he did not mention, received $26,049 of what he termed "subsidy feed payments" and $2,865 worth of free hay from the drought relief program. He said most of the benefits were paid in 1957 but that "when an inquiry was made they were stopped."

'Dead' Man Now Termed 'Serious' After Operation

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An unemployed machinist who was technically dead from a severed jugular vein and carotid artery was in serious condition Monday after a seven-hour operation.

Velden Averett, 37, has control of his arms and legs but doctors are still waiting to learn whether an hour without pulse, breathing or blood pressure damaged his brain.

Averett was revived by Dr. Sanford A. Marcus, 36, whose baby son was kidnapped in 1955. He shot adrenalin into the heart and administered three pints of plasma, five pints of whole blood and one pint of a chemical blood substitute.

Averett's throat was slashed by glass from a shattered bar door during a scuffle with another patron, 37-year-old Wynston V. Margrave.

Margrave was booked for assault and freed on $1,000 bail. Ambulance steward Joe Lanther held the severed vein and administered oxygen as Averett was rushed to the hospital.

His wife, Katherine, arriving at the hospital soon after was told her husband had died. She collapsed.

One hospital surgeon said Averett "had a wound in his throat big enough to shove your fist through. He had no pulse, no respiration and no blood pressure. He was technically and legally dead."

Yemen May Join Egypt And Syria

... In United Republic

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — The new United Arab Republic awaited official word Monday that the little kingdom of Yemen will become associated with it.

Egyptian sources said Yemeni Crown Prince Seif El Islam El Badr is due in Cairo from Yemen at any moment to make the announcement. But a government spokesman said "we are still waiting for information" on when he will leave for Cairo.

One report published abroad said Yemen's ailing 62-year-old ruler, Iman Ahmed, had abdicated in favor of his son, the crown prince.

That would explain the prince's delay, but the report was viewed with "extreme skepticism" by the Yemeni legation. It said it had heard no such report.

The prince, who is also Yemen's premier, originally was expected in Cairo as early as Sunday. An Egyptian spokesman said at that time the prince would announce that "Yemen will adhere to the United Arab Republic."

Demo Solon Blasts Ike's Money Policy

DALLAS (AP) — Sen. John Sparkman (D-Ala) Monday assailed what he called President Eisenhower's "mad infatuation with Wall Street money leaders" and said Eisenhower's "misleading" of rural power co-operatives is another example of inept leadership.

The remarks of Sparkman, one of the principal speakers at a National Rural Electrification Co-operative Assn. convention here, were echoed by other speakers.

They included Texas Gov. Price Daniel, who criticized high interest rates and the administration's attitude toward the electric co-ops.

Daniel praised the role of the rural electric co-ops. He admonished them to stand their ground in the face of what he called government attacks and to "continue to progress in the future."

Sparkman, in an interview before his speech, accused Eisenhower of advocating policies that would kill rural power co-ops.

"The President has sent to Congress legislation that would double the amount the co-ops would pay for their money," he said.

"There are many farms in America that have yet to be served by electric power. They can't expand if they have to pay exorbitant interest rates."

The President wants the co-ops to get money from private sources "and that can mean only one thing, the Wall Street lenders," Sparkman said.

"There seems to be some sort of wild devotion on the part of the President to high interest rates, a mad infatuation with the Wall Street money lenders," he said.

Many Workers In Dublin Strike

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Three thousand municipal workers went on strike Monday and Dublin housewives know it. When they turn on faucets amber water gushes forth.

Among the strikers were technicians who add chemicals to water of the River Liffey before it is pumped into the mains. The Liffey is the color of weak tea. The water is safe to use.

The city employees, in demanding a 10 shilling ($1.40) a week pay increase, promise to safeguard public security and health.

The Fire Department remained on duty and so did the ambulance service. Persons not directly associated with the care of patients walked out of city hospitals. Garbage collectors quit. City offices were closed.

Science Conferees Invite Oppenheimer To Parley

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (INS) — Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer is making his first appearance at a government-sponsored parley since the government dropped him from the Atomic Energy Commission, for "security reasons" in 1953.

He is in New Haven as an invited participant in the two-day conference of the President's Committee on Scientists and Engineers, meeting to discuss what can be done to meet the challenge of Soviet science.

Dr. Oppenheimer, regarded as the "most controversial" participant in the meeting, denied this role Monday, saying "I am here primarily to hear what others have to say."

He seemed pleased, nevertheless, to have been invited to New Haven by President Eisenhower's committee.

In an interview, he said he still believes that "all people" should be in on advances in science and learning, stating:

"Progress in science and learning goes fastest and best when completely open and all people are in on it."

Widens Understanding

Dr. Oppenheimer admitted that such an open exchange is "not practical" in armaments. But in other fields, he indicated, it is entirely possible to carry on an exchange of ideas and increase understanding among nations.

The scientist noted that poor utilization of this nation's scientific manpower and the failure to develop all potentially promising young people are not the faults of government.

The crux of today's problem, as Dr. Oppenheimer sees it, is in the homes of the nation. He said: "If there is respect for hard work and learning in homes, this has more weight than anything else."

Pat Ash Inc. Charged With Pay Violation

A civil complaint filed in U.S. Federal Court names Pat Ash Inc. and Councilman Pat Ash as in alleged violation of overtime pay rate sections of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938.

The complaint names Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell as plaintiff.

The firm involved is the printing, photoengraving, and reproducing plant at 1211 P. According to the complaint some six employees of the plant are involved.

The filing says in part: "The Corporation (Pat Ash Inc.) is employing employees in interstate commerce for workweeks longer than 40 hours since Sept. 25, 1955 without compensating these employees for their employment in excess of 40 hours in workweeks during said period at rates not less than one and one-half times the regular rate at which they are employed."

The complaint also alleges the firm's "failure to make, keep and preserve adequate and accurate records" including the failure to show the number of hours employees worked per day and per week.

The complaint stated that the corporation, and Ash as principal officer, "repeatedly have violated and are violating" Sections 7 and 15 (a) (2) of the federal labor act.

New Missiles Boss Warns Korean Reds

FIRST CORPS HEADQUARTERS, Korea (Tuesday) (INS) — The U.S. Army's new missiles boss, Lt. Gen. Arthur Trudeau, warned that any new Communist aggression in Korea would force the free world to "destroy the power that operates from the Kremlin and Peiping."

Trudeau uttered the warning on the eve of his departure for his new post in Washington where he replaces Lt. Gen. James Gavin as the Army's chief of research and development.

The occasion was a farewell review and parade for the general who leaves his post as First Corps commander in Korea.

Cheerful

In an address to United Nations troops at Corps headquarters north of Seoul, Trudeau declared:

"The advent to Korea of equipment capable of utilizing atomic weapons, should war again be forced on us, is cheerful news to all of us."

"It's time that the continued violations of the armistice agreement by the Communists for over four years should be offset by improving capabilities of our reduced forces."

In a parting shot to the South Korean and U.S. soldiers of his command, the colorful, 55-year-old general said:

"Keep your bayonets sharp."

Union Hailed

ATHENS (AP) — Greek Foreign Minister Evangelos Averoff hailed the union of Syria and Egypt as a factor that "will contribute to the maintenance of peace and security in the Middle East."

In a special statement he also said it will "help the economic development of the whole area and raise the living standards of its populations."

Russia Offers To Discuss Control Of Outer Space

Abolition Of Atomic Weapons Demanded As A Concession

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Bulganin, in his latest letter to President Eisenhower, offers to discuss the control of outer space, the Soviet government disclosed Monday.

But the offer is wrapped up in a package, including abolition of nuclear weapons and reduction of armed forces—in a form that previously proved unacceptable to the United States.

Bulganin also seeks to meet United States objections to an East-West summit conference by proposing an agenda and by accepting the idea of preparatory talks through normal diplomatic channels.

Eisenhower already had ruled out nearly every one of Bulganin's nine agenda points, and Bulganin's acceptance of the idea of preparatory talks seemed based on the West's agreeing first of all to call the summit conference.

Bulganin's 17-page letter to the President was delivered at the White House the previous day. It was his third letter to the President since Dec. 10, and was a reply to one from the President on Jan. 12 in which the President suggested the need at this "decisive moment in history" for control of outer space.

The contents were made public at a news conference by the Soviet Foreign Ministry spokesman, Leonid F. Ilyichev. The text was broadcast by Moscow Radio.

Its publication apparently caught the U.S. Embassy here by surprise. Embassy officials earlier had said they expected it would be made public simultaneously Tuesday in Washington and Moscow. Eisenhower was just beginning a study of a translation of the note in Washington when the contents were released here.

Explorer Speeds Along
Bulganin's offer to discuss outer space was delivered while the U.S. satellite Explorer was in its first 48 hours of orbit around the earth.

Bulganin said it is impossible to consider the outer space question except "as a part of the general problem of banning nuclear and rocket weapons."

The Soviet, he added, is ready to discuss such problems as the control of intercontinental missiles "if the Western powers show a willingness to come to an agreement on prohibiting atomic and nuclear weapons and the banning of their tests and the dismantling of military bases on foreign territory."

"There is no doubt that in such a situation an agreement on the use of outer space only for peaceful purposes would meet no obstacles," he wrote.

In proposing renunciation of outer space warfare, Eisenhower, reminded Bulganin on Jan. 12 that the United States 10 years ago offered to renounce making atomic weapons. He said if the Soviet Union had accepted that offer the world would not now be faced with an atomic menace.

No Preliminary Talks
Although Bulganin said the Soviet Union is agreeable to preparing for a summit conference through diplomatic channels, it would not agree to having a conference with Secretary of State Dulles and other foreign ministers beforehand.

This seemed to imply the Soviet wants the West to agree first to call a summit conference, and then set about preparing for it.

Mennonites To Have First Church Here

The first church of Mennonite denomination in Lincoln will be located here after April 1st.

The Rev. Verne Spindell, pastor of Vine Congregational Church, reported that the congregation voted Monday night to sell its present building to three Mennonite churches in the Milford area for $20,000.

The three churches are the Mennonite Church of Milford, East Fairview Mennonite Church of Milford and the West Fairview Mennonite Church of Beaver Crossing.

The Mennonite churches had approved the contract to buy the 25th and S St. property last month.

The Vine Congregational Church, which has been at its present location since 1907, will move into a new building at 1800 Twin Ridge Rd. about April 1st.

The Mennonites' new property includes a sanctuary which holds 175 persons, and a combination Sunday School and dining room area.

Bids To Be Received On Old County Detention Home

By HARRIET ASHLEY
Star Staff Writer

The old Lancaster County Detention Home at 746 Rose St. is likely to pass out of existence as county property.

The 12-room brick home, estimated at 60 to 70 years old, is to be sold. Sealed bids will be taken Tuesday at the county clerk's office for the property.

The detention home was merged with Westview Nursing Home, operated by the county northwest of Lincoln in 1956. The juvenile unit is located in the west wing.

This was done as an economy move, according to the Lancaster County Board. In recent years the Rose St. home was costing the county $9,000 a year for an average of one child a day.

Cold Storage For Kids
The old home, once referred to as "a cold storage place for kids" by Policewoman Hulda Roper, was used to detain children authorities wanted to study more—children in trouble, those for whom homes could not be immediately found and children who had run away from out-of-town homes.

Usually they were in the home only a day or two, but some remained longer. Few compliments have been wasted on the Rose St. building in its use as a detention home. Mrs. Claude Gibson, who previously operated the home, called it "an old hole." Many children had to be locked in their rooms and pots were provided for them because there were no individual toilet facilities.

Really difficult cases were placed in a small, barred "jail." There was no definite work or recreation provided for the children and no place for supervised indoor play.

Final Draft Of Electrical Code Ready

The city Council was told Monday that a final draft of proposed amendments to the city electrical ordinance has been completed.

City Atty. Ralph Nelson said all interested groups had received copies of the proposed ordinance for review.

All except the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce group have responded, he added.

Some changes in phrasing and minor details have been suggested and "these differences can be resolved" by the legal staff, he said. Nelson was told to hold up presentation of the ordinance until the Chamber group responds, but the Council urged early action.

Proposals to change the electrical ordinance have been under committee study for several months.

Madison Officials' Salaries Boosted

MADISON, Neb. (AP)—When Madison County commissioners did a turnabout and decided to raise county officials salaries, they were not acting on their own pay.

It was pointed out Monday that a story from Madison implied the commissioners had raised their own salaries from $2,500 to $2,800. Actually, commissioners' salaries are set by the Legislature, which granted the $300 increase.

The commissioners originally decided not to raise county officers' salaries, then changed their minds and voted increases effective January, 1959.

Grass Roots Interest

It is hoped that if the Democratic and Republican parties have an idea on financing that will get more average people interested in politics, they don't kill the idea with their own arguing. Paul Butler, Democratic national chairman, mentioned something about the plan in a public statement and was immediately taken to task by Meade Alcorn, GOP national chairman.

Seems as though Butler and Alcorn had agreed that nothing would be said about the plan by either of them. The idea of that being greater public acceptance if the plan were not presented from either party, but rather, from a supposedly outside, impartial group.

They may have had a point in their secrecy

Challenging Basic Doctrine

Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, is a man of persuasive words and keen wit, as a man in his position must be in order to survive. He is of a different stripe than the type of labor leaders who rule the unions that stand astride the vital services such as transportation, and once upon a time—coal. The public can withstand a dearth of automobiles, but neither the UAW nor the public can defend absolutely against the invoked paralysis say, of transportation.

It is naturally, then, with persuasiveness that Reuther is advocating a new type of labor contract which would set aside all over 10 per cent of his industry's capital return before taxes for distribution to labor, car buyers and stockholders. Many will support that formula on its superficial attractiveness. But it calls for the most thoughtful treatment.

In the first place, it presumes that the industry makes a practice of excessive profits and ignores the fact that a mechanism historically exists in the public interest to deal with the practice of excessive profits, of monopoly, market-rigging and such transgressions against but the destruction of that point should not destroy the plan. If, through financial contributions to political activities, the general public can be more closely related to both parties, it would be a great advantage to government.

Enough details of the plan are not known to permit comment on its feasibility but its goal contains nothing but merit. A great many shortcomings of government on all levels can be traced, among other things, to the lack of public interest as evidenced in the voting record. Government can be improved only by people electing good men to office and this can be accomplished only when the voters have enough interest to go to the polls on election day.

the public welfare. It was furnished by public law, not a union contract, and this is still a country of law.

A second questionable factor in the proposal is its presumption that a non-owning, non-risking segment can properly usurp the rights of the owner without the responsibilities that must inevitably be associated with them. It is the American doctrine that the misuse or imprudent practice of the rights of ownership result in failure and the loss of the property. But that could not apply to a segment which could presume to direct the use of that property without the penalty of loss of it in event of misdirection.

Mr. Reuther may wish to place his union across the front of management, with disregard for the stockholders, who are the owners, but he is careful to draw the issue with "successful" management. It is doubtful that he would like to permit the issue to follow through to the case of the unsuccessful management. Such a management gets liquidated. There is no indication that Mr. Reuther envisions the disbanding and overthrow of his union in event its interference with the rights of the owner worked out badly.

We Didn't Do It

Indubitably Americans recovered a good deal of their sense of security as well as their self-assurance when the Army's Jupiter-C rocket sailed up into space and in due time successfully launched the first U.S. satellite.

It was also indubitably satisfying news to the rest of the free world to know that Russia is no longer the only conqueror of space. Everyone now feels better protected.

But lest such reassuring feelings carry over into a dangerous period of complacency, the

"we did it" part of it needs examination.

We only did a part of it. The Jupiter-C is not an all-American conception. The best of it sprang from the ingenious minds of Dr. Wernher Von Braun and his 130-man team of former German scientists. We raked them in from the ruined scientific strongholds of the Nazis. We neither educated nor nourished their genius, but rather we benefited from it.

It was much the same with the achievement of the first atom bomb. It was the product of international science, hatched in a nest that American money and encouragement built.

The Jupiter-C is not a vindication of the American educational system nor of general American know-how. It is at best a mighty welcome stopgap protecting this country until it can get all the way into a do-it-yourself position.

If America is to be realistic about this latest achievement it will take little credit to itself, but hasten with even greater urgency toward the ultimate position when it truly can rely upon itself.

Phil Wadhams

When Phil Wadhams died, he left no immediate family and no relatives in Lincoln. But he left a great many friends and admirers. During his 43 years as a newsmen for The Lincoln Journal, Phil, as everyone who knew him called him, lived and worked with honesty, conviction and consideration.

His greeting was always friendly and his generosity knew no bounds. Throughout his long years of covering the news in Lincoln and the state he made few if any enemies. He loved people and he loved nature. It is that example which he leaves with us upon his passing.

Inherent Error

While the country is so concerned with its defense problems it is hard to draw attention to questionable behaviour charged in the instance of some of the government's regulatory agencies. The current cloud over the Federal Communications Commission is a good example. It is possible that the congressional examination of that body will come and go without much public interest.

The inherent error in the FCC seems to be less in favors accepted by commission members from sources which it is the commission's job to regulate. It is rather in the attitude of the national administration that commissions are its facilities and should reflect the administration's attitudes. Actually the commissions were set up by Congress with appointive power in the hands of the President. Their purpose is to be nonpartisan except in the sense that partisanship lies in protecting the public interest.

The public cannot have faith in a commission that reverses its course according to what party is in power.

Johnston Enters Bipartisan Try

WASHINGTON — Eric Johnston, who has had the courage to try to arrange peace between the Jews and the Arabs, tried recently to appease Eisenhower's enmity toward Harry Truman. He didn't quite succeed.

He did get an agreement that Truman should be invited to be the main speaker at a big bipartisan luncheon to boost foreign aid on February 25, and that Eisenhower should be the main speaker at a dinner the same night. But he didn't succeed in getting Ike to sit at the same meeting with Truman—even though Vice President Nixon strongly backed him up.

Johnston, who is head of the motion picture association and was president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce longer than any other man in history, had been appointed by Eisenhower to lead a bipartisan campaign to mobilize public opinion for foreign aid, now facing rough sledding in Congress.

The campaign is to include a bipartisan conference attended by Eisenhower, Herbert Hoover and Clare Boothe Luce on the Republican side; with Adlai Stevenson, Eleanor Roosevelt and Harry Truman on the Democratic side.

Johnston feels that the future of American world leadership is at stake and that complete political unity is necessary. To sell the idea to Eisenhower, he and Vice President Nixon went to the White House.

Ike approved the plan until Harry Truman's name was mentioned. At this he blew a gasket. He objected to having Truman participate.

Nixon argued that some dramatic spectacle such as a joint appeal by Ike and Truman was necessary if the administration was to put foreign aid through Congress. Ike, however, was still opposed.

He didn't elaborate, but it's no secret that the President has nursed a grudge against Truman for some time, has never invited him to the White House, and refused to see him when he first went to Kansas City in 1953. Truman tried to pay his respects to the President at that time but was informed Eisenhower was busy.

Johnston looked a little discouraged when he left the White House after his session with Nixon and Ike. His plans for bipartisanship seemed to be on the rocks.

However, the resourceful Johnston went out to Kansas City to see Mr. Truman. The ex-president was a good sport, has accepted an invitation to speak at a gala luncheon. That night President Eisenhower will speak at a gala dinner. The two will not meet.

Note—There's one definite advantage to holding both a luncheon and a dinner, the White House argued. For if too many big names are at one speakers' table it curtails the time limit for each speaker and makes for too many important speeches for the newspapers to absorb in one story.

Leadership Said U.S. Lack

WASHINGTON—Washington enjoyed a cheerful week end for a change. The success of the Explorer took the pressure off everybody—politicians, defense contractors and scientists.

"The heat's off, it's up," rejoiced one contractor with heavy space age contracts.

Not only was it up, but the Horatio Alger story in which Americans still deeply believe despite their supposed sophistication had been proved again. The down-trodden Alger came up from far behind to win the race from the favorite. Yesterday's gloomy generals now feel like the heroes of pluck and luck; they expect their rags to turn into riches if the Alger ethos continues to run true to form.

The truth is that despite the rosy glow, Washington's basic problems remain unchanged. It was inevitable that the United States would succeed in sending a satellite aloft; it had never been anything but a question of giving the enterprise priority. In recent weeks it finally achieved that priority the hard way.

By coincidence, leaders of both parties from all sections of the country were conferring here at the time. Not by coincidence, all of them gingerly stepped around the problem which perplexes the free world most—lack of leadership here.

The Republican National Committee, holding the winter meeting which had been postponed because of the President's third major illness, dutifully hailed the President and vice president. They listened politely to the Cabinet, including Agriculture Secretary Benson whom they would really like to see orbiting in the Explorer.

BOB CONSIDINE

Short-Changed Month, February

NEW YORK—Hello there, February. You're a cool month, Feb. Been reading all about you in the youngest kid's home work, and also in the current issue of United Air Lines' house organ, "Mainliner," which is secreted in the papoose pouch of U.A.L. seats.

In case you've forgotten, Feb. you once had 30 days, which pretty good. ("Thirty days hath September, and the four have all the other, I guesst.")

Julius Caesar got you in all that trouble, as you know. He ordered his astronomers to figure out exactly how long it took the earth to spin around the sun. They came up with the arresting total of 365 days, five hours, 48 minutes, 45.5 seconds. Caesar, scratching a wart, said, "Divide that into 12 months." Then he got sore because the month named after him—July—wound up with only 30 days. The bum should've had a Univac.

So his people took a day away from February, a defenseless sort of month, reducing it to 29 days. Otherwise, everything was dandy except that distressing little matter of those five hours, 48 minutes, 45.5 seconds dangling at the end of the calendar year. They couldn't be swept under the horological rug, Buster. So the ruling was made that February would be restored its lost day, once every four years.

And that's how it was until the Emperor Augustus got sore because HIS month, August, had only 30 days. His people looked around and—of course—there stood weakling February. Little Augie grabbed a day from it.

You're pretty much of a sad sack month, Feb. They write songs about September, December, May and June. But not even Nick Kenny can rhyme February with anything, except with another ridiculous month named January.

Some terrible things happened in Feb., including the sinking of the U.S.S. Maine and the installation of a federal income tax. But a lot of interesting people were born during Feb. Take Babe Ruth, for example. Then Charles A. Lindbergh, John L. Lewis, Marian Anderson, Charles Dickens, Aaron Burr, Tom Edison, Jules Verne (the author of Mike Todd), Grant Wood, William Allen White, Byron Nelson, Jascha Heifetz, Sinclair Lewis, John Barrymore, Caruso, Longfellow, Victor Herbert, Handel, Charles Lamb, Susan B. Anthony, the 14th Dalai Lama, G. Washington, A. Lincoln and Michael Riley Considine.

We'll give you one more chance, Feb. (Copyright, 1958, By INS Inc.)

THE PEOPLE SPEAK

A City Looks Over Its Shoulder

The Posse

Lincoln, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Possibly the reason Gayle D. Doolittle of Cheney, at home with his "occasional humor," during the past few days failed to see the sheriff's posse was because the posse was outside in police, sheriff and private cars trying to apprehend Starkweather.

A POSSE WIFE

Lincoln, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Many historical events have been remembered by famous sayings—"Praise the Lord and pass the ammunition"—"Surrender, hell, we're just beginning to fight!"—"Damn the torpedoes, full speed ahead!"—and many others. The answer to the man from Cheney who wrote asking "where the sheriff's mounted posse was" should have been: "They went that way." This just about sums up all police activity in the Starkweather case.

We have been given detailed reports of the police activity at the Bartlett home prior to the discovery of the bodies. It would make good reading to have a report on what touched off last Wednesday's Wild West episode at least 12 to 16 hours after the crime and the get-away cars were stolen. It is dangerous to throw panic into a city. Radio reports had police chasing each other, Sputniks, flying saucers, etc.

An investigation into the false alarm should be made.

KENNETH RUSSELL

Lincoln, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: I would like to answer Gayle D. Doolittle. The sheriff's posse may not have been on their horses, but they were out patrolling the Cheney area while their own homes went unprotected. I stayed home alone with my children while my husband was checking farms in that area for several night hours. Neither he nor I doubted for one minute that his duty lay in reporting to the sheriff's office and following such orders as he received Tuesday night. And still he got up at six o'clock Wednesday morning to do chores and report for his regular job by eight o'clock. Wednesday afternoon I left our home to take his badge and arms to him so he could check homes in Lincoln where the killer had reportedly been seen. Again he wasn't on his horse. He left his work to do what to him was a necessary job. It's too bad he couldn't do it gloriously. Just a dangerous job and a wife wondering if he would return. Perhaps next time he can cover a mile on a horse instead of several miles in a car, and forget the Cheney area.

KATHRYN M. DWINELL

Lincoln, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: It is difficult to say whether we as newcomers to Lincoln are more appalled over the Starkweather case than we would be had we lived here all our lives. Certainly we realize that juvenile crime is not peculiar to Lincoln, to Nebraska, nor to any geographical or political area. It does, however, seem to be most prevalent among a certain group of adolescents whose trademark consists of duck-tail haircuts, black leather jackets held together with zippers, tight blue jeans, and metal plates on their shoes. The last item is, to me at last, the most objectionable of all because the wearers, apparently in order to insure that they will be heard even when not seen, adopt a careless, slovenly, foot-dragging gait completely devoid of pride or self-respect.

To be sure, dress and carriage do not in themselves constitute evidence of anything, good or bad. Who can honestly deny, however, that in this case we are dealing with a group of potential if not actual criminals?

Formal law forbidding particular items of dress or requiring frequent haircuts are not practical although individual cases have been so handled in the courts. However, schools could be empowered to enforce certain restrictions on pupils. Many restaurants throughout the country publicly proclaim the right to refuse service to anyone. Any privately-owned place of business or amusement could do the same. Many will say, "but this is only attacking the symptoms, not the cause." True enough, but most of the miraculous cures of modern medicine begun by treating the symptoms. Could not the citizens of Lincoln in general and particularly those who deal in goods and services refrain by tacit consent from dispensing certain goods and services and from dealing with those who affect them?

How about it, Lincolinites? In the past six months I have heard repeated expressions of pride in your city and your state and of the courage and fortitude of the pioneers who first settled here. Would you justify this pride by taking a pioneering step of your own?

NEWCOMER

Lincoln, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: I believe the time has come for the people in the city of Lincoln to snap out of their shock of complacency and realize that Lincoln is no longer just a market for the surrounding farms, a university town, and a midwestern capital, but a growing city which will soon equal Omaha, Minneapolis, or Des Moines in size and population.

When the city of Lincoln resorted to armed force, it showed it had not made a fool of itself once but twice. First, because it had allowed this "scourge of God" to rise and threaten the welfare of the community. And second, because it became pan-c-stricken, ready to destroy anything that seemed out of the ordinary; it forgot to use its brain instead of, and along with, its brawn.

I don't intend to deny the fact that eleven murders have been committed nor that a mentally unbalanced teen-ager has admitted the killings, but who, exactly, is to blame for this astounding tragedy?

We must blame ourselves! We can't blame Charles Starkweather for if it hadn't been him it would have been someone else. If we had just started ten, or even better twenty, years ago, to change our attitudes towards each other, this calamity could have been avoided. We could have provided better health and education facilities for our young and old folks. The community could have used good, strong and healthy minds and bodies. These things could have been done if we had elected and hired people dedicated to protecting and serving a community and state to its best interests. However, a majority of us didn't vote in the last election, did we?

It made a lot of difference. It made a lot of difference to Starkweather, his parents, the Fugates, the Bartletts, the Jensens, the Kings and all the rest of the people who were innocently dragged into the snake pit of terror. We should be proud of our state for its conservatism and its saving of the people's money by vetoing and disregarding projects that might improve and benefit the welfare of its citizens. We deserve what we get: economic security at the expense of social stability.

SILAS BARNESBY

Lincoln, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: As a new member of the greater Belmont area, I wish to voice my opinion on the publicity given this area. It seems as though the only things "newsworthy" from Belmont are of the caliber such as the tragedy which occurred last week.

We have repeatedly requested publicity and sent in articles about our various civic activities in Belmont, and we have been told they were not of interest or they were cut down to mere mention. I wish to state publicly our various youth activities. We have an active and complete Cub Scout, Brownie, Boy Scout and Girl Scout program at our community center and several of the troops have won honors locally and statewide. Our teen-agers have distinguished themselves scholastically at Whittier Junior High School and have been elected to student government posts. We have a very active and enthusiastic PTA at our grade school.

Please, Lincoln, give us a chance—there are good and bad in all parts of a city. If we are Lincoln's weakest link, don't break the chain. Help us to strengthen it by kind words and thoughts for those who are trying to better our community and the city as a whole.

MRS. CARROLL KNIGHT

Lincoln, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: I was amazed to hear that the prosecuting attorney is charging a 14-year-old girl with a part in the killing of the 10 victims. This girl doesn't need the death penalty, but she needs to be placed in a correctional home where she can forget this terrible thing and develop into a fine young girl. I fail to see how a small girl could muster up the courage even to attempt to kill these people. It is ridiculous. First Starkweather said that he forced her to come along, and then he said she came along willingly. In my opinion, this is a fine time for a lie detector test. It could save a life.

Also, I think the Lincoln Police Department is about due for a clean-up such as Omaha had. The police department is one place where you absolutely cannot have indifference and stupidity. The State Highway Patrol is about the best organization in Nebraska. They require at least two years of college education for their patrolmen. What does Lincoln require for their patrolmen? Also, what qualifications does Police Chief Carroll have? I think the qualifications for officers along with salaries should be raised. This includes the qualifications for the chief of police. After these steps are taken, we will have officers who are interested in their jobs. In California they take men with four-year degrees for patrolmen positions. It's something to think about.

Prosperity

Lincoln, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: President Eisenhower says that we can look forward to five years of prosperity, and in the next breath he is asking the Congress to raise the public debt $5 billion. Prosperity, with more public debt? BEN KECK

A Whitewash

Lincoln, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: If ever there was a time when a grand jury investigation was needed in Lincoln, this is it. One of the worst crimes in the history of the United States has taken place here, and yet the politicians at the City Hall are determined to whitewash the whole miserable affair.

Why? J. L. BERRY

Our Money's Worth

Lincoln, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: The mayor and City Council may be satisfied with their findings in our recent murder episode and police actions. However, the rest of the citizens here are certainly dissatisfied and classify this as the prize boner in police records.

A little detective work last December could possibly have prevented 10 recent killings. At that time it was published that all leads, friends, hangouts, etc., were traced down. Yet now we find that this individual was never even questioned.

There is no use in going through actions at the Bartlett home. It's too late now. Any time several calls on the same address come in and are answered by a routine investigation such as we have had, it is high time the term, "routine investigation," be overhauled. It is unthinkable that upon finding no one home, a complete examination of the premises was not made. Let's not apply this term, "routine investigation," so loosely. We hear the cry for better men and higher salaries in our police department, but I wonder if we are getting our money's worth now. It's too late to remedy past happenings but it is high time some drastic action and reforms were put into effect to prevent further happenings.

CITIZEN

Russian Economy

Lincoln, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: It seems that the over-all economy of Russia is ample to assist some of the Asiatic nations. This inquirer would like to know how the Soviet treasury is financed. Being totalitarian, it is presumed that banks and big industries, and much of agriculture are state-owned. May a Chinaman operate his own laundry; may a Greek have a restaurant? Do doctors and lawyers have private practices and collect fees? Is a barber a government employee? Does the public own and pay property taxes or income taxes? Terry Carpenter might also be interested.

True Thinking

Lincoln, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: I have read your Friday morning, January 31, editorial, entitled "Day of Judgment," and would like to compliment you on the splendid way in which you have written. I feel that you have portrayed the thinking and feelings of the people of Lincoln, and I wish this editorial could have been printed on the front page of The Star.

Any pain incurred by doctors' or dentists' bills is deductible on your federal income tax.

To deduct medical and dental expenses, you must list the doctor's name and amount paid during the year for such bills incurred by yourself, your spouse or any dependent who received over half of his support from you.

You can deduct amounts paid for the prevention, cure, correction, or treatment of a physical or mental defect or illness. You can also deduct the cost of transportation necessary to get medical care. Meals and lodging expenses while away from home receiving medical treatment may not be deducted unless they are part of a hospital bill.

You can also deduct payments to or for doctors, dentists, nurses, hospitals, eyeglasses, artificial teeth, medical or surgical appliances, braces, X-ray examinations or treatment and premiums on hospital or medical insurance.

Drugs Too

Medicines and drugs bought may be included in medical expense only by the amount they exceed one per cent of your adjusted gross income. For example if $100 was spent for medicines and your adjusted gross income was $6,000 you may include only $40 of the $100 in medical expenses ($100 minus one per cent of $6,000, or $60 equals $40).

You cannot deduct payments for funeral expenses, cemetery plot, illegal operations or drugs, premiums on life insurance or travel for a rest or change.

There are certain limitations on the amount deductible as medical and dental expense. You may deduct only the amount paid in excess of three per cent of your adjusted gross income.

For example, if $300 was spent for medical expense and your adjusted gross income was $6,000, your deduction would be $120 ($300 minus three per cent of $6,000, or $180 equals $120).

Also, the maximum amount deductible, regardless of the amount paid, is $2,500 multiplied by the number of exemptions to which you are entitled (except exemptions for age and blindness).

$5,000 Maximum

The maximum amount that may be deducted for medical expense on a separate return is $5,000. Up to $10,000 may be deducted on a joint return of husband and wife, or on the return of a person qualifying as "head of household" or the return of a widow or widower qualifying for special tax rates as a "surviving spouse."

If either you or your wife is 65 or older at the end of the year, you are not required to reduce your medical expense deduction by three per cent of your adjusted gross income.

There are also special rules regarding the deduction of medical expenses of taxpayers who died during the year. Taxpayers with questions about the deduction for medical expense or any other matter on their federal income tax return should telephone or visit the local office of the Internal Revenue Service.

Stan Delaplane's POSTCARD

The pueblo of San Pedro Rivas is a few high, dusty miles from Toluca. If you come from Mexico City for the great Toluca market day, you may buy colored baskets from San Pedro.

The village lies off the highway. It has a gray stone church built by the Franciscans about 1550. The green-bronze bell that has called the village to Christian prayer for four centuries is square. Cast in sand by Indian converts.

It is a quiet village in the high-land sun.

In San Pedro Rivas, Porfirio Perfecto de la Luz talked over an urgent situation with Juan Cesario Leocadio.

Porfirio and Juan are brothers-in-law — Porfirio is married to Juan's sister. He has seven sons by her.

The subject of their talk was one of the sons. He had been bewitched, they agreed. As Porfirio later related:

"The witch sucked the blood from him."

"The witch must be killed and burned. As is the custom of our people in these pueblos," said Porfirio. "Only in this way could the boy be saved. And anyone would have done the same."

There was one embarrassment. The witch, Maria Nicolasa Leocadio, was Juan's mother. Porfirio's mother-in-law and grandmother of the bewitched boy.

But the customs of the villages go deep into the village life. "The witch was killed with a rock, according to our custom," said Porfirio. When she was dead, each of the four men gave her certain ritualistic blows about the head and body.

There was some talk in San Pedro Rivas when Maria Nicolasa disappeared. The word drifted down to Toluca with the basket sellers and from the market to the police.

Agents of the Servicio Secreto came to the village. With a little help from some villagers, they found the body and made the arrests.

None of the men felt any remorse, said the Secret Service agents.

Scientist Says Moon Could Be Hit With Almost Same Rocket That Launched 'Explorer'

... Second Satellite 'Well Along'

PASADENA, Calif. (INS)—Scientists who helped to put America's Explorer satellite into an orbit around the earth said Monday it would be possible to hit the moon with almost the same Jupiter-C system which sent the baby moon hurtling into space.

They also revealed that a second satellite is "well along" toward completion.

Dr. J. E. Froehlich of the California Institute of Technology Jet Propulsion Laboratory, where the Explorer I satellite was built, said a relatively simple "kick in the apogee" could send very much the same Jupiter-C system, which launched it, to the moon.

This, he said, could be accomplished by substituting a few pounds of solid rocket propellant for the radio battery weight in the Explorer's Jupiter-C system and then touching it off when the fourth-stage vehicle reached the point of its orbit farthest from the earth.

Dr. Froehlich also said it was "within the realm of possibility" that the moon could be hit by mounting the JPL-developed satellite stages on a liquid-fueled first stage of greater thrust than the modified Redstone missile used in last Friday night's history making firing from Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Dr. W. H. Pickering, director of the laboratory, said this was "an interesting speculation."

Dr. Froehlich said at the news conference that having a more powerful first stage launcher was "not necessarily" the chief factor in sending a rocket to the moon.

Little Impetus
He pointed out that little impetus is required in space to give a rocket tremendous acceleration.

He noted, too, that the Caltech team is aiming at putting a second satellite into orbit at this time, rather than at the moon.

The new Explorer satellite, expected to be launched within eight months, will use the same combination of rockets as the one now circling the earth but its instrument package will be "more sophisticated."

Although it will carry about the same 30.8 pounds of weight, it will be able to send back more data to earth on cosmic radiation, the count of micrometeorites and the abrasive action of dust clouds in space.

18,500 M.P.H.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The United States' Explorer satellite is whizzing in orbit about the earth at speeds from 15,400 to 18,500 miles an hour.

The closest the slender, 6½ foot satellite is coming to the earth is 220 miles and at times it soars 1,700 miles above. The nearer the earth, the faster the speed.

That's the calculation given by Dr. Fred Elmer of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory (JPL) at Pasadena, Calif., who disclosed he was pretty sure just 156 seconds after blastoff time from here Friday night that the Explorer was in orbit.

Ten Years

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—A top Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory scientist supported estimates that the United States satellite "Explorer" may continue to spin around the world for as much as 10 years.

Dr. Don A. Lautman, senior scientist with the observatory's computing section, estimated America's first satellite would orbit "several years—and possibly as much as 10 years."

A spokesman for the observatory said Dr. Lautman based his opinion on the fact that the U.S. satellite's peak is at a much higher altitude than the Soviet Sputniks, that it presents a smaller cross section, and was designed to spin once first like a rifle bullet with consequent lessening of atmospheric drag.

In contrast, the rocket of Sputnik II tumbled in space, presenting a much larger area to the atmosphere.

NU Students Criticize U.S. 'Holding Back'

Four university students speaking Monday on United Nations proceedings criticized the U.S. attitude of "holding back" on important issues.

Participating in a panel discussion before members of the Lincoln United Nations Assn. were Sue Collins, Janice Peterson and Brad Campbell of Nebraska Wesleyan University, and Amir Maghen of the University of Nebraska.

U.S. delegates to the UN have been instructed not to participate in voting or discussion of the human rights issue when human rights matters clash with U.S. commitments to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries, the students related.

The United Nations seems to be in a stalemate also on the question of disarmament, they explained. Countries are afraid of war and afraid to try for peace.

In the matter of human rights, the U.N. has failed because it has only a moral power with no jurisdiction in the matter, one panel member pointed out. Many foreign delegates seemed to draw no distinction between the troops that marched into Hungary, and the National Guard troops in Little Rock, considering both a breach of the human rights code.

The four panelists were among 27 students from Lincoln universities who attended a three-day seminar to the United Nations in New York City.

State's 100%-Soil-Bank Bids Now Total 15,529

A total of 15,529 bids on 2,422,535 acres, had been received Monday by the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office from Nebraska farmers offering the government a chance to take their entire cropland out of production for five or 10 years.

The bids came from every county in the state except Grant. Friday night was the deadline for bids, but more were expected in the mail Tuesday, the office reported.

Over 11% Of Cropland

The bids represented 11.2 per cent of Nebraska's 21½ million acres of cropland.

Nebraska's goal in the experimental program was originally set at 410,000 acres. Between 6½ and 7 million dollars are available to finance one year of the entire-farm soil bank program in Nebraska.

On the originally acreage, this amount would average $15.85 per acre.

Per Acre Limits

No basis for accepting of bids has been set. Limits on the per-acre payments will be set by the Department of Agriculture in Washington and representatives are expected to be in Lincoln Tuesday.

The county ASC committee will be the final judges of whether a bid will be accepted, the office reported, and it is hoped that farmers can be informed by Feb. 15 on the status of their bids.

In Lancaster County, 427 bids were entered covering 52,000 acres. Other counties included Saunders, 353 bids, 42,000 acres; Seward, 233 bids, 32,000 acres; Platte, 308 bids, 43,000 acres; Kimball, 129 bids, 45,000 acres; and Cheyenne, 153 bids, 29,000 acres.

Secondary Boycotts Blamed For Financial Losses

Unicam Probe Gets Started

... At Norfolk

NORFOLK, Neb. (AP) — A total of 15 witnesses appeared Monday afternoon before the Legislature's special committee investigating secondary boycotts imposed by the teamsters union.

As a whole, they testified that as a result of secondary boycotts, they have lost money sometimes in the "thousands of dollars," had dissatisfied customers and in some instances had lost patronage.

Nebraska News

Shipments that normally took two to three days en route would arrive from 10 days to a month or more late when it was specified that the shipments should be handled by two non-union firms, Abler Transfer Co or Clark Brothers Co., Norfolk, the businessmen from Norfolk, Pierce and Neligh said.

In some instances, they claimed, the merchandise would be delivered by some truck lines they had not specified.

They told the committee that union workers in Omaha would refuse to load merchandise on non-union trucks and in some instances loaded it onto union trucks and sent the cargo in a round-about way to make deliveries.

Representatives of Clark Brothers and Abler were scheduled to testify Tuesday at the hearing over which State Sen. Ray Simmons of Fremont is presiding as committee chairman.

New Neighbor In Town

A brand new resident in East-borough—and in Lincoln, too, for that matter—is Mrs. William Giles who with L. Giles arrived last month from San Antonio, Tex.

A graduate of San Diego, Calif., State College, where she is a member of Pi Beta Phi, Mrs. Giles helped organize the Pi Phi chapter at Denison University, Granville, O., where she was a post-graduate student.

No doubt Mrs. Giles is an avid baseball fan as her husband's father, Warren C. Giles, is president of baseball's National League. A graduate of Denison University, L. Giles is serving as a navigator at the Lincoln Air Force Base.

THE RUMOR factory is at it again—But this time we have the feeling that the story is more truth than fiction. According to the grapevine one of Lincoln's well known bachelor attorneys is about to change his ways. He is, according to the rumor, to become a benedict.

The story goes further and states that the young lady resides in France and that the alleged bridegroom-elect met her while on one of his numerous trips abroad. We were told there is to be another trip to France where the wedding will take place.

Only time and the bachelor can give us the right answers.

LEAVING rumor and romance for the time being we'll delve into the fact department and see what's what around town.

We learn for instance, that Mr. and Mrs. George G. Swin-gle plane off this morning for Palm Springs, Calif., where they will spend a month's holiday.

FROM Phoenix, Ariz., came the news that Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Lloyd, who have been residing in Phoenix for the past few years, are the incentives for numerous farewell courtesies for which their Phoenix friends are hosts and hostesses.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd are moving to La Jolla, Calif.

THE CALENDAR for late week has some interesting notations—We've already told you about the Backstage Club's "Masqued Ball" on Friday evening—But also on Friday evening is the Colonial Dancing Club's dinner dance at Hotel Cornhusker. We hear that the affair is to be a birthday party, and that some special features have been planned as a surprise.

Making the arrangements for the dinner dance and the entertainment is a committee composed of Dr. and Mrs. Harold Hellweg, chairman; Mr. and Mrs. Gene Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Groh, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Hale, Mr. and Mrs. Herb Henderson, Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth McGinnis, Mr. and Mrs. John Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Wagner, Dr. and Mrs. E. D. Zeeman, Dr. and Mrs. Roland Mueller and Mr. and Mrs. John Spray.

—AND on Saturday evening the members of the Merrimix Club will hold their February party at Hotel Cornhusker. In charge of the affair is a committee which includes Mr. and Mrs. Gale Calder, chairman; Mr. and Mrs. Everett Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Koch, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Loosbrock.

EASTRIDGE

A welcome this morning to Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Beezley and their two children, Douglas, aged 9, and Randall, aged 5, who settled in their Eastridge home at 846 Mulder Dr. in December. The Beezley foursome formerly resided at 1812 South Cotner St.

While chatting with Mrs. Beezley we learned that she and Mr. Beezley recently entertained in their home at a bridge party at which their guests were former neighborhood friends. Included among the group besides the host and hostess were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Nuernberger, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hinrichs and Mr. and Mrs. Steve Sutton.

Introductions also are in order this Tuesday aym for another family foursome which recently moved from 2041 Lake Street to 821 Dale Dr., in Eastridge. The newcomers to the area are Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Cox and their two children, Gary, a student at Millard Lefler, and Donna, who is a freshman at Wellesley College in Wellesley, Mass., where she is majoring in political science.

Understand that it was on Saturday when Ens. Vernon Hall, who is stationed at Key West, Fla., arrived in Lincoln—and Eastridge—to remain for a week's stay with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Hall.

Speaking of the Hall family reminds us that they recently entertained at an informal dinner to compliment Dr. Theodore Newcomb, who is the director of social research at the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, Mich. Dr. Newcomb visited last week at the University of Nebraska.

There was a gala affair on Saturday evening at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Lawrence McKee who were host and hostess when they entertained a monthly dinner-bridge club of which four of the members are residents in Eastridge. The group includes, in addition to Dr. and Mrs. McKee, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stehly, Dr. and Mrs. Gordon Pejsar and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Cobb. His parents and mine haven't spoken to each other ever since they had a misunderstanding about naming our twin boys three years ago. It is regular tug-of-war every Thanksgiving and Christmas because both sets of parents want us to be with them. We can't invite one set to our home and ignore the other set so consequently we have been seeing very little of either set. His parents are as stubborn as mine. Please help us get them together?

BETWIXT AND BETWEEN DEAR ABBY: Call both sets of parents and invite them to your home for a "Let bygones be bygones" party. Tell them they are punishing you as well as themselves by their childish grudge-holding. Ask them to make up with each other as a favor to you, and if they don't put THAT in their peace pipes and smoke it—they can all stay home!

DEAR ABBY: I know your column is no place to make a speech but when I saw that letter from the woman whose neighbor tried to force PLANNED PARENTHOOD pamphlets on her because she had seven children in as many years, it hit close to home. I was the last of twelve children. We were so poor we didn't have enough blankets on our beds in winter. I remember how I used to cry all the way to school because I knew the kids would laugh at the way I was dressed. My clothes were hand-me-downs or rummage-sale bargains and they were either too big or too small. Large families are wonderful, Abby, for people who can afford them, but I think it is cruel to bring unwanted children into the world and make them do without. I wonder how many of your readers agree with me?

ONE OF TWELVE DEAR ONE: Thank you for your intelligent letter. I, for one agree with you.

DEAR ABBY: How dumb can a person be? I think I take the cake. I have been keeping company with this so-called gentleman for the past four years. Every year just BEFORE CHRISTMAS he manages to get in a big fight with me and we break up. I caught on to him after this happened the fourth time. The reason? He doesn't have to get me a Christmas present. He comes around in February with a ten-cent Valentine to make up. How should I handle him?

NO GIFT DEAR NO GIFT: On Washington's birthday bury the hatchet—right in the middle of your "romance."

DEAR ABBY: I am a 25-year-old man and have just broken my engagement. The reason was because I learned that the girl I was to marry had been unfaithful beyond belief all during our courtship and engagement. I haven't told anyone the reason for the break-up. Her father called and asked me and I couldn't give him a good reason for my actions. Please tell me, what should I say when people ask me who broke it off and why?

STUMPED DEAR STUMPED: Say, "We agreed to call it off—for personal reasons." Nothing more need be said.

If you have a problem, write to Abigail Van Buren in care of this paper. She will be glad to answer your letter. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Hats Off to Teacher

In this day of many school problems, it behooves us to doff our hats to those dedicated men and women who stick to their teaching jobs year after year, playing such a large part in making our children the kind of people we wish them to be. Your club or PTA group might plan a "Pat-on-the-Back" dinner for the teachers in your community.

Saturday Trash Project

We women are trash-savers! Why not devote next Saturday to tossing away old magazines, filing away past correspondence, and generally clearing away all the papers that could cause fires at your house? The job will be lots easier if you're one of the fortunate families who own a gas incinerator. This modern, automatic helper removes burnable trash and garbage smokelessly, odorlessly, day or night. You rid your home of trash before it accumulates! See the gas incinerator at your local gas company or gas appliance dealer... find out how economically you can own one.

February Dessert

George Washington might smile at all the birthday celebrations still accorded him. I think he'd heartily approve of a one-crust cherry pie, wearing a big dollop of whipped cream and a stemmed cherry, smack on top! Company likes this one.

So Many Friends

The folks who bring you natural gas are fine friends indeed! Suppose you're planning to remodel your home, or build a new one. The people at your local gas company know just how to go about planning an efficient kitchen or laundry room, and they're happy to share their secrets with you. And there is another friend who works for you: Northern Natural Gas Company, the pipeline supplier who brings natural gas to your town, and your local gas company.

New Apple Cookery

New-style dessert apples, Mrs. Don C. Nelson of Tekamah, Nebr., calls these: Pare and halve 6 large baking apples. Set them aside. Place 2 cups water and 1 cup sugar in a quart saucepan. Warm over low heat, stirring constantly. When sugar is dissolved, place apples in the solution. Add 1/2 tsp. cinnamon and 1/2 tsp. nutmeg. Cook with lid on saucepan for 20 minutes; remove lid and cook until apples become transparent. Allow them to cool and serve them (with cinnamon-sprinkled whipped cream, for instance) as an easy dessert.

Baking Engineers

Would you believe it? There are men who make a daily habit of baking cakes. They're not bakers! They are skilled engineers whose business it is to test gas appliances before they are put out for sale. By hundreds of rigorous tests, inside and out, your gas range is proven a perfect servant before you buy it. The gas range that passes every test wears a special "Blue-Star" seal of approval from the American Gas Association. Look for it, when you see those handsome new gas ranges on display at your local gas company or gas appliance dealer.

Teach Her Beauty

Does your young daughter bewail her straight locks, and wish she had curly hair? Don't send her away with a pat of the pigtails; encourage her! This is a happy sign she's seeking prettiness. Teach her to make pin-curls. Consider a mild permanent wave. Buy her a cream to keep her skin from chapping; teach her to use a nail file, an emery board. Let her wear nail polish for a party! (Nails that are polished are seldom bitten.)

Bring Spring Inside

What care we for the winds that whistle and the snow that falls? We can capture Spring this way: Bring in a bare branch, and paint in silver or gold with dime-store metallic paint. While wet, sprinkle with pastel sequins. Attach tiny birds from the dime-store or flower shop, and a few fake flowers. Put it in a small sand-filled flower pot on a table in front of a window. You'll never notice the frost on the pane!

Federal Act Fear Is Cited

Folsom Supports Education Aid Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Welfare Folsom hit out Monday at what he called, "blind and unreasoned fear of any federal action in education whatsoever."

Folsom testified at a joint meeting of two House Education subcommittees in support of the administration's billion dollar plan for school aid centered on science.

He ran into lengthy questioning from chairman Barden (D-NC) of the full House Committee on Education and Labor.

Barden was especially critical of an administration proposal to terminate federal aid to vocational education by 1960 and to give up the federal telephone tax to the states to provide them financial means to absorb the increased cost.

Citing praise of vocational education by President Eisenhower, Barden said the program has been very successful and added:

Bad Time

"It seems to me like a bad time to trade horses in the middle of the stream."

"How are you going to justify a billion dollar program when you are trying to shift a 30 million dollar program to the states—and use the same type of program but cover a much broader field?" Barden asked.

Folsom replied that the vocational education program was initiated to encourage states and local communities in that field, and has achieved its purpose.

Barden suggested use of loans instead of scholarships to aid needy talented students to go to college.

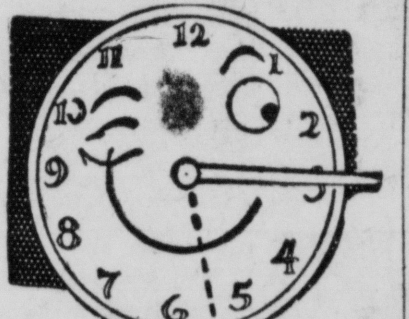

Will Do More

"Modern laboratory equipment will do more to instill desire to go to college than anything else," Barden said. "And with modern equipment and good teachers you can strike out that paragraph proposing counseling and save some money."

In support of his argument that fear of federal action must not block the school aid program, Folsom said the whole plan is based on maintaining local control, but added:

"It is a problem which requires a national perspective and a nationwide effort."

DETAILS OF STARKWEATHER'S BLOODY RAMPAGE BEGINNING TO CLEAR

after Mrs. Street threatened to return with a search warrant when Caril would not admit her.

Meyer

They apparently left the home about 9:30 a.m. and went to the farm home of August Meyer about 2 miles east of Bennet. Meyer, 70, apparently was shot with a shotgun by Starkweather shortly after their arrival.

Starkweather and Caril are then believed to have left and bought

Ress To Get Wage Ruling On Interstate

... By Wednesday

The U.S. Department of Labor said Monday it will notify State Engineer L. N. Ress "not later than Wednesday" about wage scale approvals for interstate highway projects scheduled for letting late this month.

The statement was made by James R. Beard of the Department of Labor in a phone conversation with Gov. Victor Anderson.

Ress had stated previously that a proposed bid letting on the interstate interchange at 114th and L at Omaha would have to be omitted unless the wage scale approvals were made shortly.

Try To Phone

He said Monday night that Beard had indicated they would try to "telephone long distance Tuesday with the needed information," and the state engineer said this would be enough time to complete necessary preliminary work to go ahead with the proposed interstate letting.

The next letting is scheduled for Feb. 27.

Gov. Anderson said the Nebraska Highway Department had submitted its proposal for pre-determined wage scales to be paid on the project to the Kansas City office of the Bureau of Public Roads Dec. 14.

The approvals were supposed to be sent to Nebraska about two weeks after that, but they were not and further checks with the Kansas City office brought no substantial indication of when they could be expected.

The governor and Ress then called Beard at the Department of Labor in Washington and were assured the approvals would be sent in time to get the project on the February letting.

Richie Ashburn Young GOP Campaign Director

Richie Ashburn, centerfielder with the Philadelphia Phillies, was appointed campaign director for the Nebraska Young Republican Club.

Ashburn, who has lived all his life in Tilden and attended Norfolk Junior College, will direct Young Republican campaign activities while he is in Nebraska, Ray C. Simmons of Fremont, state chairman of the Young GOP, said.

groceries and rifle and shotgun shells, and returned that afternoon. They reportedly got stuck on the return trip near the razed school house where Starkweather later killed Jensen and Miss King.

A farmer pulled them out, and they drove back to the Meyer farm, getting stuck in the lane leading to the house. They then are believed to have walked to the Meyer home.

One unconfirmed report is that Starkweather checked the washhouse where he had left Meyer's body and found a quilt he had put over Meyer apparently had been removed. (He said later he believed the wind blew it off the body.)

Fearing that the body might have been discovered, Starkweather and Caril walked about three-quarters of a mile and took refuge in the storm cellar of the razed rural school.

King, Jensen

That evening—Jan. 27th—they took out on foot towards Bennet, hoping to get help to pull their car out. Jensen and Carol King came driving up, and asked if "anything was wrong."

After a short conversation, Starkweather and Caril got into the Jensen car, purportedly for a ride into Bennet to phone a garage.

Once in the car, Starkweather forced Jensen to drive to the former school site. While in the car Starkweather robbed Jensen of his money and told him they were going to take his car.

Told To Get Out

Upon arrival at the school site, according to County Attorney Scheele, Jensen and Miss King were directed out of the car by both Starkweather and Caril "out-gate" (both reportedly had guns). Starkweather reportedly then took the pair to the storm cellar. Whether they were shot immediately is not clear. This is where Scheele has said that Carol King was the victim of "an unnatural sex attack." Starkweather, however, reportedly has denied attacking her.

After both Miss King and Jensen were shot with a .22 rifle, Starkweather and Caril left the Bennet area in the Jensen car. An unconfirmed report is that they drove as far west as Hastings, Neb., then decided they needed a better car and returned to Lincoln early the morning of Jan. 28th.

Wards

They reportedly went directly to the home of C. Lauer Ward at 2843 So. 24th, arriving just after Ward had left for work. Starkweather is believed to have picked the Ward home because of its double-garage which is located at the rear of the house.

Starkweather apparently drove the Jensen car into the stall vacated by Ward when he drove to work and then he and Caril entered the home. Mrs. Ward and the family's long-time housekeeper, Miss Lillian Fencil, were bound and gagged.

Sometime during the day Starkweather stabbed to death both Mrs. Ward and Miss Fencil. When Ward arrived home about 6:30 p.m. Starkweather shot him in the head with a .22 caliber rifle.

About 8 p.m. Starkweather and Caril left the Ward home in Ward's 1956 black Packard, and drove westward across the state.

The Escape

They reportedly were spotted several times by service station attendants and truck drivers in western Nebraska, but were not recognized as the pair sought in the Lincoln-area killings (an alert was still out for the Jensen car which was not found at the Ward home until about noon the next day, Jan. 29th).

About 2:30 p.m. (Lincoln time) on Jan. 29th Starkweather drove through Douglas, Wyo., and was noticed by Police Chief Bob Ainslie. Ainslie took out after the car when he observed the Lincoln license plates it bore.

But seeing that it was a Packard — still no alert had been received in Wyoming for the Packard — he quit following it at the west edge of Douglas.

Collision

Starkweather, however, believed he had been recognized and decided it was time to change cars again. He drove about 14 miles west of Douglas where he saw a 1956 Buick parked on a side road.

He pulled near it, got out, approached the car and yelled at the sleeping driver to get out. The driver, Merle Collision of Great Falls, Mont., either did not hear him or would not get out, so Starkweather pumped two .22 caliber rifle bullets through the window at Collision.

Collision pushed open the door and Starkweather shot him several more times, killing him. Starkweather then drove the Buick from the country road onto the main highway, but could not release the parking brake.

Along came Joe Sprinkle, a Casper, Wyo., salesman. He stopped and asked if anything was wrong and Starkweather ordered him out of his car.

The Capture

Starkweather told Sprinkle to help him release the Buick parking brake or he would shoot him. Sprinkle, believing his only chance was to get the rifle, made a lunge for the gun and a struggle followed.

Then Deputy Sheriff Bill Romer of Casper—en route on routine business to Douglas—came along and noted the struggle between Starkweather and Sprinkle. As he pulled up and stopped, Caril Fugate ran up to his car and screamed "He's going to kill me, he's crazy!"

Romer asked who was going to kill her, and she said "Starkweather." Then Romer knew who he had come upon, but by this time Sprinkle had wrested the rifle from Starkweather and Starkweather had driven off in the Packard.

Romer radioed ahead to Douglas, and Chief Ainslie and Sheriff Earl Heflin came out to meet the fleeing car. They came upon the Packard about five miles outside of Douglas, and turned and followed it.

They narrowly missed curbing it in downtown Douglas, and Heflin fired several shots at the car with his .30-30 rifle. Several miles east of Douglas Starkweather suddenly stopped the car in the traffic lane and got out. He was bleeding from a small cut on his ear which was caused by flying glass.

Heflin and Ainslie both had to fire several shots at his feet to get him to put his hands up. They had him lie down on his stomach, handcuffed him and took him into Douglas where he was jailed.

An empty .32 caliber pistol and a hunting knife were found in the Packard. A jammed .22 caliber rifle and a .410 shotgun were found in the Buick. The gun Sprinkle had wrested from Starkweather had a spent .22 shell in the chamber and two live bullets in the shell chamber. Caril Fugate was brought in to Douglas by Romer.

Both were held until Nebraska authorities arrived. Wyoming officials waived their jurisdiction over the pair and both were returned to Lincoln by car.

Malcolm, Firth Win Openers

Lancaster County Tourney Underway

By BOB McCOY

Star Sports Staff Writer
Malcolm and Firth began action in the 1958 Lancaster County Basketball tournament with runaway victories at Nebraska Wesleyan's Taylor Gym Monday night.

But it's doubtful that either triumph will mean much toward a county championship. The tourney's two top-seeded clubs, Sprague-Martell Central and Hickman, are heavily favored to move into the finals Friday and let Monday's winners settle the consolation title.

Central plays Raymond and Hickman meets Bennett in first round games Wednesday.

In Monday night's games, Firth walloped hapless Panama 53-31 and Malcolm came alive in the second half to spill scrappy Walton, 67-40.

In the opener, Panama never had a chance as Firth jumped off to a 12-0 lead before Buzz Doeschot broke the scoring ice for the losers with a pair of free throws.

Fast-breaking Malcolm pulled away from Walton in the third period to win handily in the final game.

Walton pressed 25-26 at the half and then rallied to tie the count at 31-31 with two minutes gone in the third period. But Malcolm got its fast break into motion and poured in ten straight points before Walton scored again.

In the girls volleyball meet held in conjunction with the basketball tourney, defending champion Panama walloped Central 15-5, 15-1 and Hickman beat Firth 14-7, 15-4 in first round games.

On tourney highlight Monday was a Firth family act, which saw four Auman's get into action. Shirley Auman took part in the Firth volleyball game while Aaron, Ronald and Wilbur appeared in the basketball lineup.

Basketball scoring summaries:
Firth 18 11 14 10-33
Panama 3 6 9 12-31
Winner's high: Dale Verhoef, 18. Loser's high: Roland Stewart, 10.
Malcolm 14 14 23 16-67
Walton 9 17 10 4-40
Winner's high: Darrell Baade, 19. Loser's high: Mike Booth, 12.

PLAINSMEN HOST WAYNE TONIGHT

Nebraska Wesleyan and Wayne State will battle for a solid first division spot in the Nebraska College Conference basketball race in what promises to be a tight contest at Taylor Gym tonight.

The Plainsmen own a 5-4 conference mark and are currently tied for fourth place with Peru. Just percentage points behind is Wayne at 6-5.

The Wildcats are riding the crest of a three-game winning streak, including a 65-64 verdict over NCC powerhouse Hastings last week. Game time for the contest is 8:05 p.m.

Polo Grounds Going To Dogs—Greyhounds

NEW YORK (AP)—The Polo Grounds, once the hallowed home of the New York baseball Giants, will go to the dogs—if a Phoenix, Ariz., race track operator has his way.

David Funk, who heads the Western Racing Inc., disclosed plans Monday for converting the now idle baseball stadium into a $15,000,000 enclosed track for greyhound racing.

York Team Wins

BROKEN BOW, Neb. (AP)—Buddy's Place of York won the team title in the third annual Mid-Nebraska Bowling Tournament here.

The winning total was 2,950 pins. Overland Sand and Gravel of Central City was second with 2,811.

With Ron Speer

Star Sports Staff Writer

Watch for Darwin Phillips, middleweight from the Lincoln Optimists, to do well in the Golden Gloves in the Chicago tournament.

Phillips displayed the most all-around class of any of the boxers I saw at the Fairgrounds matches over the weekend.

Although he has a very sketchy boxing background, Phillips had little trouble handling Matt Taber the first loss of his career.

Two years ago Matt won in the Lincoln tourney but wasn't able to compete in the Midwest Gloves in Omaha because of a job commitment. He never lost a bout that year. He laid out last year.

This year he won four bouts without a defeat. He can hardly be called a novice, but Phillips easily outpointed him in the middleweight finals.

Incidentally, Matt's trouble didn't begin in the ring. Last Tuesday he was doing roadwork in the south part of Lincoln when two policemen drove by... noticed his bright red hair and immediately took him for another redhead, Charles Starkweather... Matt finally straightened them out.

Chuck Taylor, another Optimist fighter who qualified for the Midwest Golden Gloves bouts, has "True Love" tattooed on his right arm... he displayed more love than ferocity in his bout in the finals against Austin Whitehorse for the light heavyweight crown... Whitehorse wasn't his match and both fighters knew it... so Taylor made it as easy as he could for his stablemate.

It's unlikely that Lincoln boxing fans will see many blows as pulverizing as the short uppercut used by Stan Larchick to kayo Lawrence Ellis for the welterweight title... the punch didn't travel far but it packed a whale of a pay load.

Marv Bauer, set shot artist for University High the past two years, is still playing basketball... for the U. S. Navy. The twice All-City guard is a member of the San Diego Naval Training Station team... averaging 20 points a game... he must be shooting like he did one night two years ago against Falls City when I watched him connect on seven straight jumpers.

Brian Etheridge, 6-8 center who played for Lincoln High as a junior a year ago, is going great guns in Denver... he moved west last spring and now is carrying a 15.7 average for South High in the Mile High City... which is third best in the Denver Public School League scoring race... his South teammates are undefeated in league play... he averaged 13 points a game for the Links last year.

Hunting notice... a notice in the mail tells me a wolf hunt will be held next Sunday at the Melvin Koepke Corner on Highway 78 near Blue Hill... jack rabbits will bring the shooter 20 cents apiece... bagger of the biggest coyote will get a five-buck bonus... and so will the killer of the smallest coyote... despite its advertisement as a "wolf hunt" there's no further mention of wolves... probably looking for wolves in coyotes' clothing.

"Pshaw!" said the man next to me in the Nebraska indoor track when officials spoiled the varsity debut of Husker miler Joe Mullins. "They've ruined my whole day," the fan continued.

Although the remainder of the meet was a dandy, the bad start was a shame. Mullins, who may well be the best distance runner ever to run for Nebraska, received an estimated clocking of 4:20 for the seven-lap race. Nobody knows for sure what his time was, as the officials had the milers run an extra lap.

There would have been some mighty lame excuses pop up if Mullins had run a mile in the neighborhood of 4:10 (which he is capable of) and no one would have had the exact time for the new record.

OXFORD, England (AP)—The touring South African universities women's hockey team Monday defeated Oxford University women 8-1.

Boozer Peps K-State By KU In Overtimes

79-75 Triumph Wildcats' Fifth

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP)—The Kansas State Wildcats blew a 13-point lead in the second half of regulation playing time then finished strong to defeat the Kansas Jayhawks 79-75 in two overtimes in a Big Eight conference thriller before a howling crowd of 17,000.

The victory was K-State's fifth in the Big Eight and puts them in a commanding position in the league basketball race.

It was Kansas' second loss against two victories in the Big Eight, leaving it Chamberlain and his teammates in a bad way in defending their title.

Kansas State, which led by 13 points, 41-28, at the half, did a good job in holding Chamberlain to 25 points, well under his 32.4 average.

Kansas State's big Bob Boozer set the scoring pace with 32 points. K-State saw its big lead melt away in the middle of the second period and yielded the lead to Kansas for the first time at 58-56 on Ron Loneski's hook shot with 3:53 remaining in regulation time.

Jack Parr tied it up for K-State before Loneski again flipped the Jayhawks ahead 60-58 with 2:30 to go. Boozer put the Wildcats into a 60-60 tie which sent them into the first overtime.

Kansas twice had the lead in the first extra period before Boozer's bucket sent it into another overtime at 65-65.

It was the 6-8 Boozer who had the commanding hand in the second overtime. He hit two field goals before fouling out with 2:39 remaining and the Wildcats didn't give up the lead again.

In winning Kansas State passed its second most rugged road test in its campaign to unseat the Jayhawks as Big Eight champions and the conference's representatives in the NCAA championship tournament in March. It also avenged the only defeat K-State has suffered in 16 games this season. Kansas beat Kansas State 79-65 in the December Big Eight tournament at Kansas City. That one didn't count in the standings.

Kansas State enjoyed leads of 11 points six times during the first half, described by Coach Tex Winter as "the best 20 minutes of basketball played by the Wildcats this year."

It could also be considered as some sort of upset since Kansas has been rated No. 2 nationally most of the season and Kansas

State is listed No. 4.

Kansas State used two of its numerous big boys—Boozer and Parr—on Chamberlain most of the tilt and it paid off. While Chamberlain was scoring well under his average, Parr helped Boozer with 15 and Hayden Abbott chipped in 13.

Kansas had a narrow shooting advantage from the floor hitting 39 of 65 for 46.2 per cent. Kansas State made 29 of 64 for 45.3 per cent.

Chamberlain's inability to score from the free throw mark hurt Kansas' chances of victory. The 7-footer made only 5, missed 7.

Wilt's sub-par night dropped him from second to third in the national scoring race with a 31.8 average. Seattle's Elgin Baylor is tops with 32.43, with Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson now second at 32.35.

SOONERS WIN; 2ND IN BIG 8

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Oklahoma whipped Colorado for the third time this season 68-53 to move into second place in the Big Eight conference basketball chase.

The Sooners ran their league record to 4-2 with a balanced attack and superior accuracy at the free throw line. Oklahoma drilled home 21 of 25 free throws in the second half and held Colorado scoreless from the field for a 10-minute stretch in the final period.

The score was tied four times in the first period but Oklahoma came from behind on quick buckets by Joe King and Roger Potts to take a 21-19 lead with seven minutes left.

GOOD EARLY TIMES

TRUE GOODNESS in whisky is like character in a man. It's there for the world to see. In Early Times this goodness is remarkable. It's so good, Kentuckians themselves choose it over all other straight whiskies. So good, millions of people in the U.S.A. have made it their personal whisky. Judge for yourself the quality and good taste of EARLY TIMES.

Baylor Frosh Heads For OU

WACO, Tex. (P)—Mike McClellan, star freshman trackman and football player at Baylor University, was given his release from his athletic scholarship on his request Monday amid charges that he had been recruited by Oklahoma.

However, the Baylor Athletic Council in giving McClellan the release refused to say he had not been recruited, and added that it had reason to believe he had been approached by Oklahoma and other schools.

Head Football Coach Sam Boyd, on hearing reports that Oklahoma was after McClellan, telephoned Oklahoma and asked for Coach Bud Wilkinson. But Wilkinson was out of town, and Boyd said he talked to Eddie Crowder, an assistant coach.

McClellan was an all-state football player and state high school sprint champion while at Stamford.

Martinez Gets Bye In Welter Tourney

If the plans of the world championship boxing committee, headed by Julius Helfand, go through on schedule, a new 147-pound champion could be crowned within three months.

Loss Didn't Hurt W. Virginia Vote

Mountaineers Retain Top Cage Spot; Kansas U Holds Down Second

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
The Associated Press

After due consideration of West Virginia's first defeat of the basketball season, the sports writers and broadcasters who follow the game closely Monday voted the Mountaineers the No. 1 college team in the nation for the seventh straight week.

The race for the top spot became wide open when the last two unbeaten major teams, West Virginia and St. John's of Brooklyn, finally met defeat last week. But the observers who had liked West Virginia during its 14-game winning streak didn't back down too far after the Mountaineers lost to Duke then bounced back to whip Florida State.

In the weekly Associated Press poll of sports writers and broadcasters, 44 out of 120 still put West Virginia on top while the remaining votes were scattered, 27 going to Kansas. The result gave West Virginia 1,061 points on the usual 10-9-8 etc. basis while runnerup Kansas polled only 928 points.

Kansas, idle since Jan. 18, didn't get a chance to cash in on the Mountaineer loss by doing something which would impress the experts. Third-place Cincinnati won two games, but a pair of unrated opponents held down Oscar Robertson's scoring and didn't let the Bearcats put on much of a show. Thus Cincinnati again beat out Kansas State by a rather narrow margin for third place.

Only one change in the top ten was made in this week's voting as San Francisco, Oklahoma State, North Carolina, Maryland, North Carolina State and Temple rounded out the upper bracket.

Kentucky, rated eighth a week ago, dropped its fourth game of the season to Georgia Tech and slipped to 12th in the point totals.

1. West Virginia (44) (15-1) 1,061
2. Kansas (27) (12-2) 928
3. Cincinnati (15) (15-2) 853
4. Kansas State (6) (14-1) 813
5. San Francisco (12) (13-1) 680
6. Oklahoma State (5) (13-2) 492
7. North Carolina (4) (12-3) 416

St. Cecilia has compiled a 12-2 season record, but is not figured at par with the 'Bolts, who have seen a tougher run of competition.

Unbeaten List Down To 12; May Be Less After Saturday

Only 12 teams remain unbeaten in Nebraska high school basketball play, but from a look at this week's schedule, the list could be chopped some more by Saturday.

Lincoln Northeast, the only AA unbeaten, should have an easy time in its only game of the week at home against Grand Island Saturday.

But York and Omaha Holy Name, Class A unbeaten, face sterner tests. York is at Lincoln Southeast on Friday. The Knights have been up-and-down this year, but can give York a stiff battle. And on Saturday, York is at home to powerful Lexington.

Omaha Holy Name, beaten only outside the state, could have trouble with Omaha Cathedral on Friday.

Fullerton, the only unbeaten in Class B, should have little difficulty tonight with St. Edward, but Friday Fullerton plays at Ord, a strong Class A club.

In Class C, unbeaten Uehling plays Dodge tonight and then enters the Kennard Invitational. Pilger should have little trouble with Humphrey St. Francis tonight and Humphrey on Friday, while Alma hosts Oxford Friday and is at Gibson on Saturday.

In Class D, the top unbeaten, Clatonia and Red Willow, should have little trouble. Clatonia is in the Gage County tournament while Red Willow plays at Wauweta tonight and hosts Bartley on Friday. Stella also should stay unbeaten through the Big 8 at Falls City.

But Brady and Sutherland may have trouble. In fact, Brady will be the underdog tonight when it plays at Arnold, a rated Class C team. Brady is also at Hershey on Friday. Madrid could find trouble with Sutherland on Friday.

Two Class AA games are on tap tonight, Boys Town playing at Cathedral and Omaha North at Benson. In Lincoln action, Hastings St. Cecilia plays at Pius X.

Chadron Ace Is Top NCC Scorer

CHADRON (INS)—Dale Hendrickson, sharpshooter of Chadron's front-running basketball team, continues to lead Nebraska College Conference scorers.

Hendrickson has scored 20 points in 10 games for a 20-points-per-game average.

Chadron has a 9-1 mark in loop play after a pair of weekend victories over Kearney Teachers. The Eagles travel to Peru for a pair of weekend games.

Second Cheyenne '58 Oil Discovery Outlook Is Good

SIDNEY, Neb. (AP)—Cheyenne County oil men have been cheered by the second discovery of 1958. Raymond Oil Co. announced that the Mather No. 1 showed 2,700 feet of fluid on a drill stem test. The test showed 1,900 feet of oil, the balance oil cut mud and water.

First discovery of 1958 was the Wilson No. 1 location.

Meanwhile oil production in Nebraska continues to show a very slight decline.

During the past week the average daily production figure was 54,686 barrels. A week earlier the average was about 100 barrels a day higher.

At the current rate of production, Nebraska would produce about 20 million barrels of oil in 1958.

Four Injured In Gering Blast

GERING, Neb. (AP) — An explosion at the north rear end of the Lockwood Potato Grading Plant late Monday injured four workmen, none seriously, and did extensive damage.

General Manager Lyle Fry said full extent of the damage would not be known until examination is made Tuesday. A compressor unit is believed to have blown up.

The explosion came just a few minutes after the main working force had left the building.

Many windows in the plant were blown out, a big hole was blown in the roof and the north wall may have been cracked, firemen said.

No Sightings

TOKYO (Tuesday) (INS) — The Tokyo Astronomical Observatory said it had not yet received any reports of visual sightings of the U.S. earth satellite Explorer over Japan but that radio signals have been picked up.

Two radio "hams" in Tokyo and one in Kyoto reported catching the signals from the satellite during the night.

Nervous L.A. Counts 55 Crash Dead

LOS ANGELES (INS)—It was black Monday in the Los Angeles area Monday as nervous residents counted 55 dead in the worst weekend of air crashes in California's history.

On Friday, two airmen were killed when their planes collided over the desert near Victorville. On Saturday, 48 persons met death when a huge military transport and a Navy patrol bomber crashed into each other 2,500 feet above Norwalk.

Sunday, a collision of two private planes near Yorba Linda killed five more persons, including a 2½-year-old boy.

In Washington, the Civil Aeronautics Board reported that of 628 near air collisions recorded in the nation in the first six months of 1957, 119—or about 19 per cent—occurred in California, and 44 in the Los Angeles area alone.

Aroused California officials, concerned over the rash of mishaps and remembering other similar accidents in the not-too-distant past, demanded a full congressional investigation to make the state's highways in the sky more safe.

Gov. Goodwin Knight declared: "A full-scale investigation of this whole subject is long overdue. The people of California are entitled to some positive action."

Two Forays

BALTIMORE (AP)—Thieves broke into Goldie's grocery store and lugged off a 400-pound safe containing $20 in cash and about $400 worth of jewelry.

Owner Maurice Goldberg was called to the scene by police. After they completed their investigation, Goldberg replaced a front door hasp which had been sawed in half and went home. This was about 3:30 a.m.

At 6 a.m. patrolman Thomas Ray discovered the second hasp had been cut.

Thieves got $270 in cash from a pretzel can in the second foray.

Consumers, OPPD Will Seek New Power District Tax Plan

By BETTY PERSON
Star Staff Writer

Consumers Public Power District and the Omaha Public Power District are expected to soon file initiative petitions seeking a constitutional amendment to change the method of taxing public power districts' retail sales in towns and villages.

The districts now make payments in lieu of taxes and the formula, set in 1941, is based on what the private power companies were paying when the state switched to public power.

Increased valuation and additional facilities acquired since that time are not generally considered in the lieu of tax payments.

Representatives of CPPD and OPPD will meet in Lincoln Tuesday to discuss the proposed petition campaign which they will sponsor.

If 56,794 valid signatures are obtained on the petitions, Nebraska voters will be asked in November to approve an amendment to the constitution which would permit such power districts to make tax payments.

It is understood the tax would equal about five per cent of gross earnings of such districts in towns and villages.

The overall effect would be to increase the money now paid by Student Rating Of Instructors Backed

The practice of students rating their instructors has the strong backing of the head of the University of Nebraska's speech department.

Dr. Leroy Laase reported in the January issue of "The Speech Teacher," a national professional journal, that the practice has aided his department in improving the quality of its instruction.

He said that he had asked students to rate their professors in 1949-50, 50-51 and again in 1954-55.

As a result of the survey, Dr. Laase said, "There was improvement in the average score of the eight staff members in the study in 1950 over 1949."

And, he said, the staff members made "relatively permanent gains" from 1949 to 1955 with the same items.

'Nothing Final' Decided On Stassen Job

WASHINGTON (INS) — The White House said Monday that "nothing final" has been decided by President Eisenhower on whether to discontinue Stassen's resignation or to request it if it is not submitted voluntarily.

Hagerty said: "There has been nothing final on that, as of now."

Asked if this meant a resignation is under consideration by the President, Hagerty said there is "nothing to consider" because no resignation has been submitted.

Hagerty then was asked whether Mr. Eisenhower would request Stassen's resignation. Hagerty replied that he knew of "nothing like that."

Stassen reportedly has lost his feud with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles over how far the U.S. should go in dealing with the Soviet Union in disarmament.

According to reports, Stassen prefers to make more concessions to the Russians in order to get new talks started than Dulles would be willing to allow.
